Thousands of Tempting Thanksgiving Turkeys Transported to Town

The first annual turkey event of the season on the Pittsburgh wharf—the arrival of the Thanksgiving birds—took place yesterday when early in the morning the down river packets put into port piled high with hundreds of coops of gobblers. The scene presented was one of the busiest in years. It was all made possible by the recent rise in the river, which permitted the packets to come up the Ohio. Thanksgiving birds of all descriptions, lean, fat, big and small, live and dressed, to the number of 15,000, were hustled off the Ben Hur from Parkersburg, and the Kanawha from Charleston and Kanawha river points. Farmers and shippers had been attracted to the Pittsburgh market by the high prices, and each meant to make the most of the situation. Positions on the wharf were at a premium and a struggle immediately ensued for favorable spots for the crates of turkeys.

Eighteen cents a pound, live weight, feathers and all, was at first demanded, but the local dealers would not buy at such prohibitive prices, and the market fell one and two cents a pound. Most of the birds were quickly taken up at these prices, but a few stood out for higher figures, and many sold turkeys retail during the afternoon. W. L. Waldon, one of the oldest shippers who comes to Pittsburgh, said:

"Only one-fourth the usual stock of poultry was raised this year in the poultry states. The unseasonable weather last spring caused the death of about three-fourths of the young stock, and this explains the shortage of birds this fall. Turkeys will be just as high at Christmas time, and maybe higher."

Rabbits and fresh eggs were also largely dealt in at the wharf yesterday and they brought fancy prices. The Keystone State is due to arrive this morning, and she will bring more turkeys than the other boats. The busy, pushing, shouting scene enacted yesterday will be repeated this morning.

DAY OF RIOTS IN WINDY CITY

Hundreds of Strikers Carry Broken Heads as Result of Turmoil.

DEATH NEAR TO MANY

NO PEACE NOW IN SIGHT

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Violent rioting in which hundreds of heads were broken by the clubs of policemen; strikers and "sympathizers" shot and carried away by friends; women and children driven from shattered cars by mobs were the features of the street car strike today.

"Archey Road," made famous by "Philosopher Dooley," was the scene of great disorder. Trolley wires were cut in dozens of places and the tracks piled high with obstructions. Horses were electrocuted by the dangling ends of live wires and the fire and police departments were kept busy seeing that no lives were lost.

Five cars on the State street line, loaded to the guards with policemen, were sent out this morning. After a trip of several hours, marked at almost every intersection by rioting, they were returned to the barns and no more were sent out.

Although no announcement has been made of the results of tonight's conference, it is positively known that the company and strikers are so far apart on several propositions that there is little prospect of peace in the immediate future unless somebody changes front. Arbitration of wages has been agreed to, but the company insists it shall be on the basis of wages paid in other cities.

On the routing of cars nothing approaching an agreement has been reached. On the reinstatement of employes who went out on a sympathetic strike, both sides are firm and directly opposed, the men demanding, the company refusing it. The question of the demand of the closed shop has been practically agreed on, the understanding being that there shall be no discrimination by either union or company for or against any man in or out of the union.

The hardest fighting of the day took place at Forty-first and State streets, where a mob hiding behind a fence stoned the cars which were guarded by officers. The police were over the fence at once and fired several shots over the heads of the fleeing strikers. Many of the mob who were slow of foot were overtaken by the police and soundly rapped with clubs. Few arrests were made, the officers contenting themselves with scattering the crowd.

Conductor J. P. Prenter was in charge of the train which was attacked and when the stones commenced to whiz past his head and smash the windows of his car he promptly drew a revolver and fired at the crowd until the cartridges in his weapon were exhausted. The cars were attacked at the same point on the return trip and a number of shots were fired, the mob scattering like a flock of chickens.

All day long on State street the company was hampered by the work of the mob which piled obstructions on the tracks, drove pegs and spikes into the cables, and cut trolley wires in many places. The Archer avenue line was badly damaged early in the day, and required several hours' work by a strong force of repairmen who were heavily guarded by the police. No attempt has been made to run cars on this line since the commencement of the strike.

The opening of the State street line today gave the company five lines on which cars were run. The service, however, is not of a character to be generally useful to the public.

Police Inspector Lavin was forced to go to the hospital tonight. During the fight this morning at Fortieth and State streets he was hit on the forehead with a stone. He did not regard the injury as serious, but was compelled to give up tonight.

HARD FIGHT WITH THIEF

Running Battle With Desperado in Allegheny Streets.

LOADED WITH JEWELS

Banker, Theological Student and City Official Join in the Stern Chase.

PAINFUL WOUNDS RECEIVED

After an exciting chase and a hard fight in which the director of public works, a theological student, two city detectives, a well-known attorney and a prominent banker participated, a daring thief was landed in Allegheny Central station last night. The thief has a broken wrist, the young minister has a wounded thigh that will keep him in bed for several days and the detectives had a hard run.

Attorney Thomas W. Bakewell of 927 Ridge avenue, surprised a big negro who was going through a desk in his house shortly before 7 o'clock last night. The thief went through a front window, jumped off the roof of the porch, and running down the terrace vaulted a fence. Mr. Bakewell from the window yelled, "Stop, thief," and Vaclac P. Backora, a student of the Western Theological seminary, across the street, started in pursuit. Backora, who is a football player, made a flying tackle and threw the man at Ridge and Grant avenues. Director E. J. McIlvain, who was on his way to city hall, tried to trip the negro before he reached the corner, but failed. Mr. McIlvain, however, joined in the chase, and when Backora threw the burglar he sat on him until Detectives John King and Joseph Dean arrived and took him to the lockup. Attorney Bakewell joined the group and in the excitement all the residents in that vicinity were attracted. J. D. Lyon, the banker, telephoned to Central station.

The thief, who gives the name of A. Williams of New York, fought desperately, and being a man of athletic build might have overpowered Bakora but for the assistance of Director McIlvain, who grasped the thief's hands, sat upon him and refused to let him get up. In the fight Bakora was terribly chewed by the negro, who tore his trousers and mangled his right thigh with his teeth. Williams offered Bakora $50 if he would let him go.

The student, who was bleeding, was taken to the office of Dr. Bippus, where his wound was cauterized.

The police found on Williams three gold watches, a gold chain, a diamond crescent pin, a diamond star pin, a man's diamond ring, a horseshoe diamond scarp pin, a diamond and pearl scarf pin, several pairs of gold cuff buttons and other jewelry. He also carried a skeleton key.

The Allegheny police are certain they have the porch climber that has been doing all the jobs that have worried the Allegheny police for several weeks. The Heckman residence in Lincoln avenue two weeks ago was robbed of $2,000 worth of jewelry. The jewelry found on Williams last night is worth over $1,500. The residence of Isaac Wertheimer, No. 1220 Fayette street, was entered last Saturday night and three diamond pins, a serpent pin of pearls, an amethyst and pearl pin, and a chattelaine watch clasp, all valued at $1,200, were taken. The front porch was used in making an entrance to all these houses.

Before the detectives arrived last night a stranger who was very desirous of holding Williams was in the group surrounding the thief and from his actions it is supposed he was a confederate. This man disappeared suddenly when the detectives arrived. In addition to a gold watch, belonging to Mrs. Bakewell, three valuable pins and $15 in money were taken from the Bakewell residence. All were found on the thief. Williams is a mulatto, about 5 feet 10 inches in height and is handsomely dressed. His description tallies with that furnished the police by Mrs. A. V. Miller of California avenue, who knocked a negro downstairs at her home Sunday night.

"TECH" COMMITTEE IS TO VISIT MR. CARNEGIE

Donor of New Schools Will Talk Over Plans With Them and Mr. Hamerschlag—See New York Institutions.

To see Mr. Carnegie, and to see also the operation of the trade schools in New York, are the purposes of a trip to be taken to the Metropolis this week by the technical schools committee of the Carnegie Institute board of trustees. The committee, or as many members thereof as can arrange matters so as to allow them to go, will leave Pittsburgh Thursday evening. Chairman William McConway said last evening that he did not know as yet if all could go.

In New York they will be met by Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag, who is in charge of the schools, and will go in a body to call on Mr. Carnegie.

The donor of the schools and the men who are to have charge of its construction and operation will then have the opportunity to discuss the plans in full. Mr. Carnegie's wishes and ideas in regard to the institution can be learned fully and the plans which the committee have formed can also be explained to him and his opinion of them learned. It is expected that after this meeting there will be some interesting announcements, since much which is now only projected will then be definitely settled.

In addition to seeing Mr. Carnegie the committee is to have the oportunity to study at close range the large trade schools in New York in which Mr. Hamerschlag has for years been an influential factor. It is expected that they will visit the St. George's trade school, of which the director of the Carnegie schools was superintendent, and others of more or less similar character.

Mr. Hamerschlag is not expected to return to Pittsburgh until he comes back with the committee. By that time the new offices of the director and his staff, in the German National bank building, at Sixth avenue and Wood street, will be ready for occupancy.

PANAMA CONSTITUTION TO COME AFTER TREATY

Germany and France Decide to Recognize New Isthmian Republic.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

COLON, Nov. 23.—The news that Germany and France have decided to recognize the independence of Panama has caused rejoicing here. It is believed England will soon take the same action.

The news that Colombia proposes to refuse to clear vessels from Colombian ports to Panama or Colon causes a smile here, and it is said such action will do much more harm to Colombia than to Panama. The transisthmian trade insures the stopping of the regular steamer lines at the Panamanian ports, and if any are cut out by reason of the boycott or blockade it will be those of Colombia.

The government is making plans as rapidly as possible for the formation of a constitutional government to take the place of the present provisional arrangement. This will not be done, however, until after the canal treaty has been disposed of.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Emperor William has directed the German authorities to officially recognize the republic of Panama. An announcement of the recognition of the state is expected daily.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Foreign Minister Delcasse today made a statement with reference to Panama and said:

"Having received notification that Panama had constituted herself an independent republic we had only to consider, once she has fulfilled the necessary conditions for the maintenance of order, what guarantee she offered. It was our strict duty to demand from the republic of Panama assurances that all French interest, including the canal concession, be respected. This assurance has been given us in decisive form. Under these conditions we had only to follow the example set by the United States and permit our agents to enter into relations with all the agents of the new republic."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The determination of the administration to keep there what force it has at the isthmus was demonstrated by two events in the navy department today, one being that the Maine, which needs repairs, will not be brought home, the other that some small vessels, such as the Castine, will be sent to the Colon side of the isthmus to keep an eye on prospective movements of Colombian troops to the republic of Panama.

Pittsburgh Man Arrested.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Frank Harney, alias Frank Murphy of Pittsburgh was arrested by Detective Dundon today. Harney was at the Star hotel, claiming to be a representative of the Union Tea Company of Pittsburgh. Today the New First National bank notified the police department that a draft for $50 upon J. S. Armstrong, a tea merchant of Pittsburgh, had been returned as not good.

PROPOSALS FOR PEACE FAIL IN SAN DOMINGO

Rebels Reject Overtures and Shelling of the Capital Is Resumed.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Nov. 23.—Late news from Santo Domingo indicates that affairs are nearing a crisis there. Efforts have been made to bring about peace, but the insurgents will listen to no terms which do not include the deposition of Wos y Gil and the turning over of the capital to them.

An armistice was agreed upon while the peace terms were being discussed, but at its conclusion the shelling of the city was resumed and an attempt to carry it by assault is momentarily expected. The food supply is running low, and it is said the government supply of ammunition is becoming much depleted.

The American, Italian and Dutch warships here have landed detachments to protect foreigners and their property, and these guards will be increased in case of an assault.

ANTARCTIC EXPLORERS LEFT WITHOUT VESSEL

Ship Carrying Nordenskjold Expedition Is Crushed by Ice and Sunk.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

BUENOS AYRES, ARGENTINA, Nov. 23.—Lieut. Jose Sobral of the Argentina navy, who accompanied the Nordenskjold Antarctic expedition, has telegraphed to La Pensa from Santa Cruz some of the particulars of the work of the expedition and the loss of its ship, the Antarctic.

Lieut. Sobral says the Antarctic attempted to go to the east of Joinville island, but met many difficulties. The ship finally entered the Gulf of Erebus and Terror, where she was crushed by the ice and sunk. This occurred on February 3 of the present year. Capt. Larsen and all the members of the party escaped and succeeded in saving some of the provisions before the ship went down.

TEN MEN MISSING.

Bark Wrecked Near San Francisco and Only Part of Crew Is Saved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The bark Francois Coppe was wrecked in a fog in Tomales bay this afternoon. Of a crew of 17 men only seven have reached shore and it is believed the remainder were lost while trying to swim ashore.

Three of those saved floated in on a raft, and four in a lifeboat were picked up by the steamer Scotia. Ten of the crew, including the captain, were in a boat that was dashed to pieces against the ship. The men are said to have fought among themselves and thus caused the destruction of the boat.

RIVAL UNIONISTS MET AS FRIENDS

Opposing Factions Among Window Glass Workers Take Step Toward Consolidation.

WILL FIGHT AN OHIO FIRM

The opposing factions of the window glass workers met in peaceful conference yesterday. A high official said last night it was the beginning of another movement to consolidate L. A. 300 and the Window Glass Workers' association of America.

During the day Simon Burns, president of 300, with his executive board, went to the headquarters of the seceded association, where President John Phillips, Jr., and his advisory board were waiting. The conference was a lengthy one, and at its conclusion the rivals shook hands and parted friends.

A plan of campaign against an Ohio window glass plant was agreed upon. The factory attempted to run non-union, and the venture was not a success. Overtures were then made to both factions to secure a scale agreement. The offer was rejected, and a conference of the rivals was called to discuss what course would be pursued. It was decided that a fight would be made against the Ohio concern. Plans were laid for the campaign, which include a 25 per cent assessment against all of the members of both organizations, if it is found necessary to raise additional funds.

Action was also taken on two small Pennsylvania window glass factories. In both cases union workmen are employed, but the owners of the houses are accused of not being members of the manufacturers' association. The workers say that this gives the employers an opportunity to cut selling prices. It was decided yesterday to inform the owners of the plants that they must join the manufacturers' association or the workers will be ordered out of the their factories.

AMERICAN FLEET TO BE WITHDRAWN

Eastern Question Settled So Far as the United States Is Concerned.

WARSHIPS TO GO TO PANAMA

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Washington, Nov. 23.—The state department confirms the story that there has been an agreement among the nations on the Russo-Japanese situation and that there is no longer any necessity for keeping the Asiatic fleet, for the present at least, in Asiatic waters. This fleet, or the most important part of it, under Rear Admiral Evans, is soon to start for Honolulu and the expectation is that it will continue its cruise to Panama.

"There is no longer, so far as we know now any eastern question in which the United States is involved," said an official of the state department today. "The United States and China have agreed on a treaty which has arrived here and will be submitted to the senate. All the reports are that there is no friction between Russia and Japan and there are the most friendly relations between the United States and Russia."

TOKYO, Nov. 23.—The Russian minister at Seoul has addressed another note to the Korean government declaring that if Korea should ignore all warnings and persist in opening Yongampho to foreign trade Russia will take active steps to deal with the situation. The Korean government has replied, strongly objecting to Russia's interference as a violation of Korea's sovereign rights. A communication to the same effect was sent to the Japanese minister at Seoul.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 23.—A semi-official Russian agency has received from Tokyo a report to the effect that Japanese warships have been despatched to prevent the Russian war vessels, Tsarevitch and Bayan, reaching Port Arthur to join the Russian squadron there.

GUNS TRAINED ON PRESIDENT

Senator Morgan Charges Him With Violating Spooner Act.

Deposed Chairman of Canal Committee Bitterly Assails Policy on the Isthmus.

CUBAN QUESTION DEBATED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Washington, Nov. 23.—Panama and Cuba engaged the attention of the senate today to the exclusion of all other questions. Mr. Hale moved to reconsider the vote by which the Newland's joint resolution for the annexation of Cuba was referred to a committee and several speeches were made on the motion without disposing of it.

The Panama question came up in connection with the announcement of the reorganization of senate committees. Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) being relieved from the chairmanship of the committee on interoceanic canals. Before the order went into effect, Mr. Morgan took the floor and his speech proved to be a discussion of the entire canal question, with liberal criticisms of the president for his course. He had not concluded when the senate adjourned and will proceed tomorrow. Before adjournment the senate unanimously agreed to vote on the Cuban bill December 16 next.

Morgan Takes the Floor.

Mr. Spooner gave notice that he wished to address the senate in opposition to the new lands resolution, and the motion to reconsider the vote of reference went over. Mr. Hale then presented the list of senate committees as agreed on by the caucuses of Republican and Democratic senators. On the motion to adopt the report Mr. Morgan (Ala.) took the floor and addressed himself to the isthmian canal question. He said he did not regret his retirement as chairman of the committee on interoceanic canals. He disclaimed partisanship in the conduct of the affairs of that committee, and declared that he has not and would not reverse his position on the canal question at the instance of any party caucus. He discussed at some length the attitude of the president in the matter of the selection of a route for the proposed isthmian canal and in doing so accused him of using his official position to advance his personal views. One man in the presidential office may be able, he said, to crush all opposition, but it remained to be seen whether he could crush the statutes of congress. He referred to the Spooner act, and said no one could nullify it. The revolution in Panama, he said, was a Caesarian operation which took Panama alive from the womb of Colombia. Mr. Morgan charged that the president has made the canal question a party question, and added:

Criticises the President.

"I think that the president's appeal to party discipline to force his opinions on the country and his measures of aggression on foreign countries in addition to his power as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, which he uses with a dreadful latitude of construction, is so strong a proof of heart failure in the present wild moments that I am encouraged to hope that there are still some barriers that we may rely upon to protect the peace and save the commerce of the country. I regret that party discipline is to be used as a domestic police force to protect 'the transit' in Panama and to guard the interests of the new canal company. That we will get a canal if one can be built in Panama I have no doubt, for the president has said so. Yet this result is not nearly so certain or so safe as if he should obey the Spooner law."

Poor Prospects for a Thanksgiving Dinner for Cuba.

Mr. Morgan said that he had only consented to the enactment of the Spooner bill because of his confidence in the good faith of the president in enforcing the seen fit to keep faith, it remained to be seen whether the senate would support him in that position. The president, he said, had completed his campaign against the Spooner act by having Mr. Hay sign a treaty with "somebody from Panama" who had no authority except that conveyed in a cablegram from a junta at Panama.

Roosevelt Never Sleeps.

He read the correspondence bearing on the revolution to show, as he said, that "the president had known of the uprising in the isthmus before it began and had stood ready with armed ships to protect those engaged in it."

The pretense in Assistant Secretary Loomis' dispatch that it was our desire to maintain peace, Mr. Morgan declared, was the grimmest piece of irony that had ever graced diplomatic annals. Mr. Morgan expressed the hope that Mr. Hay had been asleep when some of the messages of his subordinates had been flying over the wire. "As for the president," he said, "he never sleeps on his post of duty or desire, although he sometimes closes his eyes to what is going on about him."

He contended that Colombia had had perfect right to suppress an uprising on the isthmus and declared that the United States failed utterly to observe its treaty obligations in pursuing the course it had taken. Indeed, he said, our course there has been such that it would bring down the censure of future generations upon us and he predicted that the immediate result would be disastrous and cause a loss of both men and treasure. The consequence would be such, said he, that the president would have no time for dreams of diplomatic triumphs.

Mr. Hay had not been in his (Morgan's) opinion a free agent in negotiating either of the canal treaties. Mr. Morgan charged that the president had resolved when the Hay-Herran treaty was under consideration to push the canal through and if authority did not exist had made up his mind to create it.

A resolution by Mr. Allison of Iowa providing for the appointment of the Rev. F. J. Prettyman of this city as chaplain of the senate for the present session was agreed to.

Mr. Cullom of Illinois presented the report of the committee on foreign relations on the bill to carry into effect the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The bill went to the calendar. Mr. Hale of Maine then moved to reconsider the vote by which the Newlands resolution for the annexation of Cuba was referred to the committee on relations with Cuba. He made the motion the basis of a speech in opposition to the policy proposed by the resolution, saying that this country had already declared its policy with reference to Cuba by enacting the Teller resolution into law. By that vote we had, he said, bidden Godspeed to Cuba in setting up a government for itself and for himself he had been agreeably surprised by the progress made by Cuba in the right direction.

Annexation of Canada.

The element of discontent in the island would, he said, indorse the Newlands measure, and among these he included the old Spanish element in Cuba and American investors there. He would not extend such an invitation to Great Britain for the uniting of Canada to the United States or to Mexico for such a union.

"I have little doubt," said Senator Hale, "that men now listening to me will see the time when Canada will become an integral part of the United States. If his plan of colonial preference is carried out by the most adventurous of British politicians, a tariff war will be inaugurated between Great Britain and the United States and this English politician will seek to set Canada up as a great rival to us, an agricultural rival. Out of that will arise considerations and considerations that will end in the union of the two peoples. But we do not invite Great Britain to send Canada to us and join the Union. She is too large a power."

Mr. Platt (Conn.) said he had regretted the introduction of the Newlands bill because he had feared it would lead to misapprehension in Cuba and Porto Rico. He did not believe that the resolutions represent in any considerable degree the business or political sentiment of the United States. He did not believe there ever would be any considerable sentiment favorable to Cuban annexation. Moreover, he hoped there would be no expansion except where it is necessary in self defense or self preservation and he considered it strange that opposition should come from those who so recently had been so loud in the denunciation of the policy of annexation.

Mr. Newlands interrupted to say that the Democratic party had always been favorable to the expansion of the republic and not of the empire.

Cuba Has Kept Faith.

Mr. Platt said that the best interests both of the United States and Cuba would be subserved by separate existences. Furthermore, he was anxious that the Cuban people should have an opportunity to show their capacity for maintaining a republican form of government, as he believed them to be so possessed from the outline. The outline of President Palma and the leading men of Cuba had been worthy of all commendation. He did not agree with Mr. Newlands that the United States is today exercising a protectorate over Cuba.

"We are," he went on, "neighbors and friends of the Cubans, and nothing more. We are friendly to them and our power has been exercised with reference to Cuba for purposes of friendship and not for aggrandizement. We have made a glorious record in our relationship to Cuba and let us not mar it."

Mr. Lodge (Mass.) also expressed regret over the introduction of the resolution. Many people of our country, he said, do not understand the distinction between the introduction and passage of a bill and if our own people do not appreciate this difference the Cubans must have a smaller degree of understanding. He believed the present debate would be of good service as giving assurance that the bill does not represent the views of the government or the people of the United States. Cuba and the United States each had acted toward each other in absolute good faith in all respects. He added:

"We have all the control in a military point of view and a political point of view that we can possibly desire." He was opposed to island states.

OPEN CHARGES ARE MADE

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—After sessions which continued throughout 13 days, the twenty-third annual convention of the American Federation of Labor has adjourned sine die. Tonight, in bidding goodby to his fellow-delegates, President Gompers said: "This convention unquestionably has been one of the most memorable and most significant in the history of the whole labor movement."

What was regarded as one of the most memorable incidents of the convention developed just before its close. It was furnished by Delegate Andrew Furuseth of San Francisco, who, in defending the legislative committee of the federation, arraigned the United States senate, which, he declared, continued the most insidious enemies of labor.

"I tell you," he said, "and I want to leave these words with you, that there is in the senate a party without a name, that deliberately and with malice aforethought, step by step, is taking from the working people every right the men have and that is creating conditions which will make all your legislation in other directions of no use."

Mr. Furuseth closed by telling the convention that Senators Platt of Connecticut, Lodge of Massachusetts, Hanna of Ohio and Morgan of Alabama should be watched with greatest care.

"A few more I could name, but if I don't mention them, I will get along better," were his words. The report of the committee was concurred in.

A resolution was adopted asking all working people to purchase goods bearing the union label. The committee on boycott recommended the greatest caution in establishing boycotts.

The principal business today was the vote directing the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners to place the wood workers in planing mills and furniture factories under the jurisdiction of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, and the refusal to grant a charter to the National Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters.

LAUDANUM BOTTLE DID NOT MEAN A SUICIDE

James A. Hopkins, Locomotive Engineer, Supposed to Have Died of Locomotor Ataxia.

James A. Hopkins, a locomotive engineer, 47 years old, died yesterday at his home, 223 Fourth avenue, Homestead, supposedly of locomotor ataxia. When it was reported to the coroner that an empty laudanum bottle was found by Hopkins' side, it was thought he had committed suicide, but Deputy Coroner James F. Loughrey thinks the disease with which Hopkins was afflicted was the cause of his death.

To Deputy Loughrey Mrs. Hopkins said her husband had not worked at his trade for five years on account of his affliction. Recently he began to hope that he would be able to work again and was cheerful over the prospect. On Saturday he complained of neuralgia, and Mrs. Hopkins bought him laudanum to rub on his face. He used the laudanum several times and said it gave him relief. About noon yesterday the wife went into her husband's bedroom and found him dying. He expired shortly afterward.

"Had my husband wished to commit suicide," said Mrs. Hopkins, "he could easily have done so, as we had carbolic acid and medicines in the house. He never talked of being tired of life."

A man, apparently a laborer, was struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train at 3 p. m. yesterday near Wilmerding. The body was taken to the morgue, but has not been identified. A brass check with the inscription "A. B. C. 181" was on his person.

PERSONALS

"The methods of mining and shipping coal in the United States are simply marvelous," said Dr. Rinno Beyer, Imperial Japanese Engineer, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday on a trip of inspection of all the coal mining industries in the world. He is a director of the bureau of mines and a member of the department of agriculture and commerce. Since last June he has been inspecting the different methods of placing coal on the market. He spent considerable time in Continental Europe and also visited England. He arrived in the United States November 11 and spent until yesterday inspecting the anthracite coal regions, making his headquarters at Scranton. Yesterday he inspected the Westinghouse works and today will go through the Carnegie works at Homestead. For several days he will inspect the methods of operating the mines in this vicinity. When he will go to St. Louis. He is a delegate to the Japanese exhibit at the World's fair and will inspect the progress of the work. He will leave later for San Francisco and sail for Japan December 7. Speaking of his tour, he said: "The various machines used in mining coal are wonderful, although the machinery is somewhat simple in construction. What impressed me most is the facilities in loading the coal into cars. The electric engines pulling the long and heavy trains and the unloading of coal into bins and steamers. The coal in Japan is similar in quality to the anthracite coal, but is much softer. We have poor facilities for getting the coal to the markets."

J. D. Christie and B. Pickles of Philadelphia, officials of the American Bridge Company, arrived in the city yesterday and are at the Lincoln.

N. S. Hargrieves of Brazil is at the Anderson.

Medical Students Did Some Freakish Stunts Last Night

One of the Bandaged Candidates.

Men strangely silent and wearing innumerable white bandages, appeared on the down-town streets about theater time last evening and caused considerable amusement and astonishment by their queer makeups. The grotesque figures rivaled Halloween masqueraders and could easily have been mistaken for escaped hospital patients, injured football players or wounded soldiers from the Philippines. The strange quietness of the masqueraders was in such sharp contrast with their makeups, that it was impossible for the uninformed to account for their sudden and unheralded appearance. The strange men were encountered at almost every corner and the streets seemed to be alive with them. In each case the decorated and bandaged man was accompanied by two men dressed in citizens clothes. After making a tour of the streets the men who accompanied the man whose picture is here given, told the secret and satisfied the curious. The masqueraders were candidates for membership in the Alpha Kappa Phi Greek fraternity of the West Penn Medical school, which met last night at the Hotel Victoria and gave 17 new members the second and third degrees.

TWENTY-THREE BURIED IN THE SAME GRAVE

Coroner Discovers That Unknown Man Was Responsible for Fatal Fire at Lilly.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Nov. 23.—In one large trench in St. Bridget's cemetery, Lilly, this afternoon, were buried 21 Italians who were burned to death in the shanty at the construction camp of McMenamin & Sims, Saturday morning, together with the bodies of the two men who died in the Memorial hospital from the effects of burns. A short service was held at the grave by the Rev. Father Ryan, who will tomorrow morning say a mass in the Catholic church in Lilly for the repose of the souls of the dead.

Three of the men in the hospital are in a very serious condition and their death is said to occur a matter of hours. Coroner Miller this afternoon conducted the inquest. Twelve witnesses were examined. The inquiry brought out the fact that the death of the men was due to the action of one man. This man, whose name is unknown, tried to save from the flames a large cot and mattress. When he reached the door there was a large number of men immediately behind him. The rush caused the cot to fall to the floor and no one was able to pass. Witnesses testified that some of the foreigners tried to pull the cot away but failed. The origin of the fire will probably never be learned.

LAND OWNERS ENTITLED TO THE SMALL COAL

Court Decides Against Lease Holders in Eastern Pennsylvania.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 23.—Judge Halsey today decided that coal land owners were entitled to the small coal which is now marketable and which was not considered as worth anything when their leases were made. This decision, if upheld by the supreme court, to which it will undoubtedly be carried, will mean the loss of many thousands of dollars by the coal companies and the gain of large amounts by the original owners.

The case decided was that of heirs of ex-Gov. Hoyt and others against the Kingston Coal Company. The lease was made in 1868, and the owners were to have pay for all coal which passed over a five-eighths-inch mesh. Since then the introduction of new rollers in the breakers and the ability to market the smaller sizes of coal has largely increased the revenue of the coal companies, and 15 per cent of the coal they now sell is that which will pass through a five-eighths mesh.

It is for this coal that the owners desire pay. In a long decision filed today Judge Halsey finds they are entitled to it.

GENERAL ELECTRIC GETS BIG NEW YORK CONTRACT

Will Equip N. Y. C. Tunnel Lines With Electricity for $12,000,000.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LYNN, MASS., Nov. 23.—A $12,000,000 contract to equip its lines running through the New York tunnel with electricity has been awarded the General Electric Company by the New York Central railroad. The contract includes 30 locomotives, 10 steam turbines of 5,000 kilowatts each for generating purposes and the complete equipment of the great power plant. The work will be divided between the Lynn and Schnectady plant and will furnish employment for an army of workmen for a long time.

An official of the General Electric Company says it is the largest contract for electric locomotives ever let in the world.

LONDON., Nov. 23.—A telegram has been received at the Indian office from the viceroy of India, Lord Curzon, saying that, according to reports received at Madras, a flood in the Palar river, November 12, destroyed half of the town of Vanizambadi, in the Salem district. Two hundred persons were drowned. The floods, the telegram says, have subsided.

Don't Like Three-Turn System.

The breach between the street car men and the Pittsburgh Railways Company was somewhat widened yesterday by the company inaugurating a three-turn system on the Hilltop branch. The scale presented by the union and which the officials refused to sign, stipulated that three-turn runs be discontinued. The advisory board of the union met yesterday to further discuss methods which will induce the company to recognize the union and to grant certain conditions.

ORPHANAGE ASSURED BY THE ELKIN'S HEIRS

Make Personal Contributions to Carry Out Codicil of Will That Is Inoperative.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—The Home for Female Orphans of Masons, provided for in a codicil in the will of the late William L. Elkins, will be built, in spite of the fact that the bequest was made within 30 days of the death of the testator and, hence, under the laws of Pennsylvania, inoperative. This is asserted by the following letter received by Gen. Louis Wagner, president of the Masonic Home of Pennsylvania, the recipients of the bequest, from the heirs under the will of Mr. Elkins:

November 19, 1903.

General Louis Wagner:

Dear Sir—The provisions for the location and erection of a Masonic orphanage made by the late William L. Elkins having failed, owing to his decease within 30 days of the date of the codicil of his will, by which it was made, we have instructed the executors and trustee of his will to carry out the same precisely as though the codicil was legally valid, and have agreed with them to make such personal contributions as will be necessary for that purpose.

LOUISE B. ELKINS.
IDA A. ELKINS TYLER.
ELEANORE ELKINS WIDENER.
GEORGE W. ELKINS.

Gen. Wagner promptly acknowledged the receipt of this letter, stating that the officers of the corporation would be glad to confer with the signers of the communication about the actual execution of the work. CHESTER D. POTTER.

STEEL AND GLASS ARE SEEN IN THE MAKING

Bernard R. Green, the Well-Known Washington Architect, Visited Local Plants.

Bernard R. Green, the distinguished Washington architect, who is spending several days here becoming acquainted at first hand with the many Pittsburgh products which he has been using in his work for years, visited the mathematical and astronomical instrument works of John A. Brashear on Observatory hill yesterday morning. In the afternoon Mr. Brashear accompanied Mr. Green, who is the great structural steel plant of the Carnegie Steel Company in Homestead, and there every opportunity was given to see the making of beams and other structural shapes.

This morning Mr. Green expects to visit one of the American Window Glass Company's factories where the new blowing machine is in operation. In the afternoon he will visit the plant of the Standard Underground Cable Company. Tomorrow he expects to see one of the large works of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Mr. Green is one of the best known of the architects to whom have been entrusted the large tasks in which the federal government is interested. He is especially interested in Pennsylvania at present as consulting architect on the Harrisburg new state capitol. This is the first time he has ever visited the manufacturing industries of this city.

BROWN'S STRING ARRIVES.

Pittsburgher's Horses Reach New Orleans and Are Well Thought Of.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Robert Tucker, trainer, arrived today with a fine string of fourteen horses, belonging to Capt. S. S. Brown, Pittsburgh's millionaire coal baron and turfman. They were hurried to quarters at the fair grounds. The Brown arrivals had been watched with interest for they are recognized as a distinct feature of the big winter race meeting which opens here next Wednesday. The announcement was expressed that Broomstick, Audience and Colonizer were absent from the bunch, but there is other brisk material.

In the 2-year-old class is Exclamation, a fine looking colt which Capt. Brown purchased as a yearling for $6,000. He is now in much better form than when he ran disappointingly in the east. ENGINE CHASED AWAY ROBBERS

Timely Rescue of Unconscious Victim on Railroad Tracks at East Pittsburgh.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE ARRESTED

James McMahon of Oak Hill was held up by three footpads between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning at the East Pittsburgh station of the Pennsylvania railroad, but was rescued by an engine crew after a lively chase on a locomotive. The robbers escaped, leaving McMahon lying unconscious across the railroad track.

McMahon was on his way home and was crossing the tracks when the three men stepped out from behind a box car. One of them dealt him a terrific blow with a coupling pin, fracturing his skull.

A yard engine was standing a short distance below the spot and the engineer saw the three men stop McMahon, strike him and saw him fall. The engineer pulled open the throttle and the engine flew up the track toward the group of highwaymen as they were proceeding to rob their victim. The robbers took fright at the approach of the engine and fled. The engine crew picked McMahon up and assisted him home. In his pockets were $30 and a gold watch which the robbers did not have time to take. The hold-up occurred near the place where Joseph Challoner of Butler street was robbed last Friday night.

About three hours afterward the East Pittsburgh police arrested two men at the Pennsylvania station. The men were acting suspiciously and yesterday were sent to the Allegheny county work house for 60 days by Burgess Daniel Hunohan. They gave their names as John Colbert and Jacob Lauer, and said their homes were at Philadelphia.

The East Pittsburgh police were notified yesterday by the chief of police of Beaver Falls that Thomas Peters had been arrested at the latter place charged with being a suspicious person, and that a lot of cutlery, consisting of knives and other articles, were found on his person. A newspaper clipping, giving an account of the robbery of the hardware store of John W. Alters, East Pittsburgh, last Wednesday, was also found in his pocket. Goods and money to the extent of $200 were stolen from the store, and Peters is suspected of being implicated in the robbery. The East Pittsburgh police will go to Beaver Falls today to get the prisoner.

The Pennsylvania freight station at Braddock was broken into early yesterday morning and four cases of bottled whisky stolen. The four cases contained 96 quarts.

James Durkee, a farmer who lives up the Chartiers valley from McKees Rocks, was held up Sunday night and robbed. Durkee was returning home from church when he was set upon by two footpads who demanded his money. Durkee replied that he had no money, except a few pieces in change. He was told to hand it over. As he did so one of the robbers hit him over the head with a blackjack and fled.

THE SMALLPOX RECORD.

New Cases in Both Cities and Two Deaths at Homestead.

There were five cases of smallpox reported in Pittsburgh yesterday, as follows: Carl Losel, Wylie avenue and Arthur street; Lawrence Fleming, No. 10 Point View avenue; John Smith, Banksville; William McCann, No. 133 South Fifteenth street; George Berkey, No. 3620 Woolslayer street.

Three new cases of smallpox were reported to the Allegheny bureau of health yesterday. They were John Kelly, of Butler, Pa., who came to the city early yesterday morning from West Virginia; Charles Bassett, No. 283 River avenue, and Lena Futzgs, of No. 4 Water alley.

Two deaths from smallpox occurred in the Homestead municipal hospital yesterday, P. J. Quinn, aged 24, of Wilmerding, and George Ledger, aged 29, of Turtle Creek. Both were taken ill last week and their ailments was at once pronounced smallpox of the most serious type. There being no municipal hospital in the Turtle Creek valley they were taken to the Homestead hospital. The funerals took place yesterday, Quinn being buried in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery at Homestead and Ledger was interred at Irwin. There are now six smallpox patients in the Homestead hospital.

"Rube" Waddell Quits the Stage After Strenuous Life at Wheeling

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

WHEELING, W. VA., Nov. 23.—"Rube" Waddell, who until Saturday night featured with the "Stain of Guilt" company, has put in several very strenuous days in Wheeling. "Rube" received a goodly sum for tossing the heavy villian around in the lurid tinted melodrama, but according to the management overdrew several hundred dollars. When he asked for an additional $50 and was refused Saturday night, he quit, and turned a deaf ear to entreaties of almost the entire cast to remain.

A few hours later he joined in with the fire department and on Sunday he accepted an engagement as bartender. Today his wife, who has not been stopping at the same hotel with him, told a pitiful story to a magistrate and was taken to the home for the aged and friendless, pending trial of her suit for non-support. Later in the day "Rube" compromised the case and tonight he packed his grip and, buying a ticket, departed for "that dear old Butler, Pa."

HANNA'S FRIENDS KEEP BOOM ALIVE

Circulars Urging Him for Republican Nomination Are Being Distributed.

SENT FROM OHIO SOURCES

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NORFOLK, VA., Nov. 23.—Hundreds of circulars, mainly newspaper clippings, urging the nomination of Senator Marcus A. Hanna as the Republican candidate for the presidency next year, have been received in this city.

The literature consists of editorial clippings from newspapers in Ohio and other parts of the country, urging Republicans everywhere to boom Senator Hanna for the presidency and to use their influence all over the south in organizing Hanna Republican clubs. Accompanying the circulars is a personal letter signed by several prominent Republicans of Cincinnati, Cleveland and Columbus, telling Republicans that if they wish to remain in power and continue the present prosperity of the country, they must look to a man other than Roosevelt to lead them in the next campaign.

One of the letters received by a prominent Republican here says: "With Hanna our standard bearer next year we can rest assured that he will be elected. It is our only hope of remaining in power, and we urge all good Republicans to work for the nomination of Hanna, and the forming of clubs bearing his name all over the country."

Most of the circulars received here were sent out from Cincinnati and Cleveland. One of them states that the senator has declared that he is not a candidate for the nomination, but that no man has ever refused a nomination made by a convention. This is construed to mean that Hanna would not refuse were he nominated. The circular further recites that should a spontaneous and universal call come from the party of course the senator would respond.

Confirmations by the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The senate today in executive session confirmed the following nominations: George R. Carter, Honolulu, Hawaii, to be governor of Hawaii; Sanford B. Dole, Hawaii, district judge of the territory of Hawaii. Postmasters: Ohio—William R. Tyler, Huron. Pennsylvania—David Reynolds, Sr., Ford City.

WILLING TO SELL THEIR FINGERS

Advertiser in The Gazette Got 170 Offers to Cut Off Middle Digit for $500.

WILL BE GRAFTED ON NOSE

WANTED—A young man who would sell his middle finger for $500 to be used in grafting a nose on man who lost his by cancer. Call or address, A. Span, Dermatologist, Room 28, McClintock Bldg., 516 Market Street.

The above advertisement appeared in The Gazette last Sunday. Up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon 170 men had replied by letter and in person offering their fingers, all of the applicants were eager to make the sacrifice for the money offered.

A number of the men were examined, and Mr. Span announced last evening that the lucky man has been decided upon. He refused to give the man's name and also refused to state who the man is that will get a new nose by this process. He said the man who wants the nose is a well-known resident of Philadelphia, who has been anxious to have the operation performed for about two years, but could not decide to do so until recently. Mr. Span said yesterday: "A middle finger is the most desirable for the purpose because it furnishes more flesh than other phalanges and because it can be removed in such a way that its loss will be scarcely noticeable. The middle finger is best for the man who sells as well as for the man who buys. It will require but a few minutes' time to remove the finger and the new nose will be grafted in an hour."

The operations are to be performed by a New York physician at Mr. Span's office about December 3. Mr. Span will announce the name of the man who sold the finger after the deal has been closed and both men get value received. A number of Pittsburgh physicians are to be present to see the nose put on the man from Philadelphia, but the patient's name is to be kept a secret.

While at Mr. Span's office yesterday a Gazette representative saw one man offer his finger for sale. He was asked several questions including, "What is your age," "Do you use liquor," and "Are you in good health."

The applicant said he was 32 years old, and that settled him. He was informed that men between the ages of 22 and 28, only, were being considered. The stranger refused to give his name. He said his business was that of a steam-fitter and that he has been out of work on account of the lockout. He said he would sell any of his fingers for $500 on a minute's notice.

One letter received in reply to the want said: "Having read your ad in The Gazette, I beg to offer myself. I am 28 and I believe I am suitable in every way." This was signed by a South Side man.

Another letter read: "If you have not closed up a deal whereby you get a finger, I would like to be considered." This was a West End man's missive.

A German restauranteur in Philadelphia sold his ear for $500, and it was grafted on to a wealthy man who was minus an ear. Both men are lying side by side in a hospital, in which position they will have to remain 12 days.

ROBBERS TOOK TIME TO TERRORIZE A FAMILY

Crawled Through Transom of Store and Made Display of Weapons and Chloroform.

The robbery of the store and dwelling of David Levinson, 1333 Fifth avenue, exclusively reported in The Gazette yesterday, was one of the boldest and most leisurely done, on record. The robbers entered Levinson's grocery store through the transom opening on Fifth avenue, ransacked the money drawer in the store, invaded the second story where the family lived, tried to chloroform two girls, and threatened the inmates at the point of revolvers. All they got was $17 in cash and a check for $50.

About 3:50 a. m., Goldie, one of Levinson's daughters, was awakened by some one walking in the room. She sat up in bed and a revolver was pushed against her face and a masked man commanded her to keep quiet. Her sister, Blanche, then awoke, and another masked man pointed a revolver at her. Both girls were too frightened to cry out. The robbers left them and went to the room of their brother, Louis, woke him up and demanded money from him. He said he had none. The robbers then returned to the girls' room and put cotton saturated with chloroform to their faces.

Then they went into the room of Levinson and his wife, awakened them and demanded money. Levinson said he had no money and the persistent burglars went to the girls' room again, commanded them to sit up and searched the bed. Blanche gave them a pocketbook containing $17 and the check. Just then Levinson leaped from his bed and breaking a window called for the police. The robbers ran down stairs, into the back yard and escaped over the fence.

Family Escaped in Night Clothes.

Roland Sharp, his wife and his two children had a narrow escape from being burned to death at their home, No. 208 Cherry lane, McKeesport, yesterday morning and had to get out of the house in their night clothes. They were awakened by the smoke and had no time to rescue anything from the building, not even their clothes. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. Sharp recently purchased the house and furnished it at a cost of $3,000. There was no insurance, either on the building or contents.

Shot a Burglar, Who Escaped.

Frank Semmelrock of Homeville, near Homestead, was returning home early yesterday morning and saw three negroes trying to break into his house. Semmelrock pulled a revolver and fired at the trio, one man falling from a bullet wound. His companions picked him up and got away before the police could be notified. J. J. Ratiagan's furnishing store in Eighth avenue, Homestead, was entered yesterday morning and goods valued at between $200 and $300 were stolen.

Saratoga Club Officers Held.

Charles Gold, Sr., Charles Gold, Jr., William Geisler and John Henderson were each held in $1,000 bail for court yesterday by Alderman S. J. Toole. The men are the alleged proprietors of the Saratoga club that operated for several months at Robinson and Goodrich streets, Allegheny. County Detective Robert G. Robinson was the prosecutor and charged the men with selling liquor illegally and selling on Sunday. A number of witnesses were brought, who testified that they had bought liquor in the club.

Washington, Wednesday evening of next week, and in Carnegie Sunday. Dr. Elliott will tell all about Reed Smoot's connection with the Mormon church.

Stolen Theater Order Was Presented.

Harry Meenan, a 16-year-old boy was arrested at a downtown theater yesterday afternoon while trying to get two seats in exchange for an order. The store of Mrs. Fritz at 5808 Second avenue, was entered Saturday night, and among the articles stolen was a pocketbook containing the theater order. Meenan said it had been given him by another boy. Meenan lives in the rear of 1850 Forbes street.

Cork Workers Went on Strike.

ALLEGHENY AX AGAIN FELL ON CITY EMPLOYES

Assistant Register of Deeds Bothwell Discharged—Some Vacancies Left.

Assistant Register of Deeds William Bothwell, who has been in the employ of Allegheny City for 10 years, was dismissed yesterday by Director E. J. McIlvain of the department of public works. Bothwell said last night:

"I called on Director McIlvain and demanded of him some reason for letting me go. He told me he knew nothing about it and said City Engineer Ehlers might tell me. Mr. Ehler's declared he had dismissed me because he was ordered to by Mayor Wyman, and he evaded my questions."

In the recent election two of Bothwell's brothers worked hard for the Republican party, and it was suspected that Bothwell voted the Republican ticket. William P. Karner, of the Second ward, gets Bothwell's position. In the water department William and George E. Kirschner were dismissed. Rudolph Weber was dropped from the payroll of the bureau of health.

Director McIlvain says he does not contemplate filling the positions made vacant by the recent dismissals, in the bureau of highways, as he declares the men are not needed in the winter.

TWO SCHUMANN PIANOS

(Entirely New and in Perfect Condition)

AT MUCH BELOW REGULAR PRICES.

On Saturday we advertised nearly a carload of NEW Schumann pianos which we secured at a big reduction in price. They were intended for Mr. Gomer Thomas, the Schumann Piano Company's agent at Danville, Pa. He died about the time of the arrival of the instruments, which we purchased from the executor of the estate.

Well, to make a long story short, we sold all but two of these pianos on Saturday.

We have marked one of them $250, the other $275. (Schumann prices ordinarily range from $330 to $400, so you will readily perceive the advantage this opportunity affords.)

Both these pianos have mahogany cases, beautifully hand-carved, the interiors are finished in birdseye maple, the bass strings are copper wound, nickeled pins, all details of material and workmanship are of the highest grade.

Should you wish one of these pianos for the holidays we will gladly reserve it for you and also make the terms of payment suit your convenience.

But remember, there are only two Schumann pianos left at the prices named.

Be prompt if you want one of them.

In this great collection of Hats and Toques for reduced prices there will be found every type of hat fashion now in vogue, as well as every material of which hats are constructed.

$7.50 for Girls' Trimmed Hats that were $15.00
$10.00 for Girls' Trimmed Hats that were $20.00

We have also reduced prices on children's ready-to-wear Hats, Caps and Toques. Special tables will be found on which are these styles in all sizes and colors at these reduced prices:

$1.50 for Untrimmed Hats that were $2.50

And for the small sum of a quarter of a dollar you can buy wings, birds, feathers, flowers and fancy aigrette trimming, each of which sold for $1.00.

Women's Stylish and Graceful Shoes for Winter

Queen Quality Embodies Both.

Of all the shoes made to sell for $3.00—in deed of all the shoes made to sell for $1.00 more—there is none that stands today in the same class with the famous Queen Quality, and there is none that has so large a following. Queen Quality is now domiciled in one of the neatest and most completely appointed homes that women can well imagine on the first floor of the East Store directly back from Main entrance. It is a wonderfully cozy place in which to have fittings. The collection of shoes is so arranged that the party waiting upon you can lay her hands upon your particular size and style in an instant.

Our shoe store carries every style the Queen Quality people make. It carries every size that women wear, and that is saying a good deal, for when it comes to slenderness women are often put to it to get a properly slender shoe.

All in all we have some sixty styles of Queen Quality Shoes for Winter, nearly all of them, only $3.00 a pair—a few special numbers that have special touches of workmanship, $3.50.

New Coats for Young Ladies and Girls.

Some of these coats are very fine, but the prices have been reduced to the prices of good medium coats; similarly the prices on medium coats have been reduced—well, to a ridiculous figure. This is a Thanksgiving Day bargain in the fullest sense of the word.

Young Ladies' Long Coats of cheviot—black, oxford, blue—finished with triple capes, half lined with satin—sizes 14-16 years—$15.00, reduced from $23.00.

Same style of coats for young ladies of same ages, the material a fancy covert cloth, at $20.00, reduced from $40.00.

Girls' Kersey and Cheviot Short Box Coats—brown, blue, red, tan—some of them lined with satin—sizes 6 and 8 years—were $6.00 and up to $8.00, now reduced to $2.50.

Girls' Long Coats—plain cloths in blue, brown, red—sizes from 4-6 years, at the special price of $5.00.

Dress Trimmings at Less Than Half Prices.

"You never know what you have until you move." True. As true of merchandising as it is in the moving of anything. Our Trimming department has just gone to its new home and we find many pieces of trimming that we don't want to carry. They are just what women want. So we make prices that will put these trimmings into the hands of new owners quickly. Among the collection will be found:

Frogs for coats and dresses; Drapes, black and white; Pendants, spangled and silk; Braid, cotton and silk; Bands, spangled and Persian; Garnitures, spangled and gulmp; Fringes, silk and beaded.

We can hardly enumerate the prices, as they will be marked at reductions of one-half to three-fourths of their former prices. Some 50c goods will be marked 25c, while other 50c goods will be marked 12½c. On aisle tables today for selection.

An indication of the extent to which peonage obtains in some portions of the south is afforded by the fact that the federal grand jury sitting at Savannah, Ga., has returned 26 indictments for the offense. Peonage is closely related to slavery, with the distinction that the peon is usually a party to the contract, while the slave is not. It is a fact, however, that in an investigation some time ago of several cases of peonage, it was found that the quasi-slaves desired their subject relations to continue. Among these 26 cases brought before the federal grand jury there may be some of the same kind. The practice is contrary to law, however, and should be broken up. Debts may be paid or care may be guaranteed under other forms.

A very important decision is that rendered by the court at Wilkesbarre in the coal case of heirs of Hoyt and others. In effect it holds that the small coal belongs to the land owners instead of the mine operators in all cases where the leases granted only the coal that would pass over a five-eighth inch screen. The value of this small coal, or slack, in recent years has become almost equal to the larger lumps. It aggregates many thousands of dollars annually and has of late pretty nearly represented the profits of the operating companies, so if the Wilkesbarre decision is sustained by the supreme court it will cause a serious disturbance in the anthracite coal region.

Science goes far afield at times for subjects of investigation. Chicago university professors have given many examples. Now Prof. Sanford Bell of Clark university announces that for 15 years he has been investigating love and he finds the human animal subject to the contagion between the ages of three years and very old age. This he sets forth as a scientific fact, worth 15 years of observation and study. We do not propose to dispute the learned gentleman's statement, but we take exception to his limitation. Why not include those under three years of age? They love also. And what is there strange or startling or new about it? What need to spend 15 years studying a subject only to come forward with a modicum of the information that might be given on the subject by an unlettered scullery maid?

Republicans in the Eighth congressional district of Texas, embracing the city of Houston and the Beaumont oil fields, are jubilant because they came within 1,500 of electing their candidate at a special election last week. The district gave a Democratic majority of 20,000 last year. This year the city of Houston was carried by the Republicans for the first time since the reconstruction period, as against a Democratic majority in the city of 2,200 at the regular congressional election last year. All of this leads the La Porte Chronicle, the only Republican paper in the district, to express the opinion that it is the beginning of the end of Democratic victories in that section. Texas certainly has room for political improvement and we wish the Chronicle abundant success in its able effort to bring about the reform.

Recently a New York physician created a sensation by offering $5,000 for a human ear for the purpose of grafting it upon a wealthy patient. He was fairly overrun with offers of ears at that price. The other day a Pittsburgh physician advertised in The Gazette that he would give $500 for a middle finger, to be grafted on a patient's face as a nose. He reports 170 applicants willing to give up a finger. There is a plain inference that some persons continue to feel the stress in the money market. Aside from that it appears that fingers are held too cheap. An external ear of wax may be procured for a small sum that condenses sound waves for the auditory canal almost as well as the natural membrane. An artificial finger, on the other hand—metaphorical hand, of course—is likely to be more in the way than of use. The quotations do not show a proper ratio of value between fingers and ears.

Orders for the Asiatic squadron to proceed to Honolulu for "drill and maneuvers" as interpreted several days ago to mean clearing of the situation in the far east. This construction is confirmed by a state department official, who says the trouble between Russia and Japan has practically been compromised, the Russian representations concerning Manchuria are accepted in good faith, the new treaty between China and the United States has been received in Washington and there is now nothing to do but ratify the treaties. This is good news, for it gives a peaceful outlook to Asia. It is true that Russia and Japan may find other causes for quarrels in the future, but for the present all is serene and there is no necessity whatever for maintaining a squadron in Chinese waters. Moreover, the voyage to Honolulu takes it toward the possible scene of action at Panama.

An example of the manner in which the United States senate can delay public business was afforded by the proceedings yesterday. The rearrangement of committees furnished Senator Morgan an excuse to make a canal speech, which consisted largely of vituperative abuse of the administration not germane to any business pending before the senate. A motion to reconsider a vote by which a resolution proposing the annexation of Cuba was referred to committee operated to let loose a flood of oratory that might well have been bottled up until the resolution was reported back from committee, if it ever shall be reported. Apparently the senators feared the resolution never would come back and for that reason made an excuse to indulge their discussion. Meantime the real Cuban question is before the senate, but is ignored pending a decision whether the vote on it shall be fixed for December 16 or some more distant date in order that the senate may adjourn for a week preceding the opening of the regular session. These little exhibitions in the senate will some day lead to a violent reform and reorganization of that body on more popular lines.

Typhoid Epidemic.

A town has at last been found that exceeds Pittsburgh in its typhoid fever rate. That unfortunate place is Butler. It is said there are at present 500 cases of the disease in the little city and the mortality is great. This, however, is an accidental and, we believe, a temporary condition in Butler. One of the excessive rains of last summer carried away the reservoir of the town water works and a supply from a polluted stream was resorted to in the emergency. The epidemic has resulted.

Butler is not content to remain in its evil condition. It is already active in considering ways and means to put an end to the fatal visitation. It is confidently expected that an immediate remedy will be provided and that by spring a permanent good water supply will be assured. Meantime it is in need of expert assistance. Doctors and nurses are worked beyond the safe limit of human endurance. More are needed. Nurses have gone from this city, but there is a call for more that should be heeded.

Pittsburgh, on the contrary, has suffered from a fearfully high typhoid rate for years. It has voted for pure water, but it is apparently no nearer the desired object than before the vote. Money provided by a bond issue lies idle in depositories drawing the pittance of 2 per cent. Unwillingness of officials to give the people what they want and the exigencies of politics have locked the wheels of progress. Filtration is balked, but the typhoid scourge goes on. It is shameful.

Our Course at Panama.

One who did not know might be misled by the unco righteous utterances of the New York Evening Post to believe that the United States had done something in Panama that the people of this country ought to be ashamed of, whereas quite the contrary is the fact. What has been done that might be criticised by persons addicted to exaltation of academic abstractions above concrete facts has been done by the people of Panama. The United States has followed it with a program and performance best calculated to preserve peace and good order on the isthmus. The treaty by which the United States bound itself to maintain uninterrupted transit across this neck of land made the state of Panama neutral territory in fact, if not in so many words. This duty of maintaining an unimpeded way for commerce the United States assumed primarily for the benefit of the world. Its incidental guarantee of the sovereignty of New Granada was against aggression from without and was not a guarantee against the consequences of internal revolution. The guarantee, as Secretary Hay has pointed out, is one that "runs with the land," and it does not impose any duty to prevent partition by and among the inhabitants of the land. Such partition has occurred by action of a portion of the inhabitants—those of the state of Panama—and the former condition could be restored only by force, which would involve the possibility of bloodshed and the destruction of property. This force, if used, must be used either by the United States or by the government of Colombia, the United States, in the event that it permitted Colombian aggression, looking on while the destruction was in progress. There is no need to detail all that this would mean, or the harm that might be done to the commerce and the means of its transportation which the United States is bound to protect. A plain question of business presented itself and it was met in a plain business-like way. The United States was under no obligation to prevent partition of Colombia by the action of its own people, and it is under an obligation to the world to preserve the freedom of commerce that made it advisable and even necessary to prevent the outbreak of war. The military forces which Colombia had maintained on the isthmus had been expelled by the inhabitants. Their return with reinforcements would mean a long period of disorder and the maintenance of a large military force by the United States on the isthmus to protect the line of the Panama railroad and its terminals. Was it better with such a prospect that the United States should permit the landing of Colombian troops or that it should do as it has done, serving notice that it would not permit troops to be landed?

The many people who object to war and bloodshed will approve the course of the American government. It has not been a course of aggression. This nation does not stand in the position of a robber nation or of a receiver of stolen goods. It has taken nothing and received nothing. It is protecting the world's commerce in accordance with its treaty obligation, and it is maintaining a separate American sovereignty on the isthmus. This is a prudent, sensible course that is approved by sensible people. It is better than to permit war with all its destruction. As for the government at Bogota, its course has been such as to deprive it of sympathy. It gave the people of Panama good reason for resentment and at least a reasonable excuse for the program of separation that has been made effective.

Postal Home Rule.

The bill introduced in the United States senate by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts requiring that henceforth all postmasters appointed shall be residents of the postal districts with which they are to serve or shall have their places of business within those districts is construed by the Washington Star to have "direct application to the District of Columbia," for the reason that "the principle sought to be established by terms of law is already in force everywhere else." The comment, however, serves to call attention to the fact that the principle that now governs generally in the appointment of postmasters has no stronger authorization than precedent and established custom. If it has worked to the satisfaction of everybody as a department ruling, why should not the principle be established in the statute law? It is not probable that there will be at first blush objection to the passage of this Lodge bill, though there may be reasons against thus tying the hands of the administration with regard to the postoffices and not similarly tying them with regard to collectorships of customs, internal revenue collectorships and district and circuit judgeships. Established custom has the force of law, and the custom of appointing the local postmaster from among the people of the district to be served is so well established that if it had not been that Senator Lodge introduced a bill bearing on the matter most people would have declared that the statutes provide for the very thing that he aims at. But as they don't and as no one has known differently, is it worth while to legislate on the subject merely to gratify the home rule sentiment of the national capital? From the passage of the Lodge bill to the passage of another providing for the election of postmasters by the popular vote of the postal districts, thus rendering them measurably independent of the central authority, is not a long step. Are we prepared to move in that direction? If we are prepared for such a measure as the Lodge bill, why not extend its provisions to all federal offices of localized jurisdiction?

The reappearance of the Hon. William Francis Harrity of Pennsylvania, at Hot Springs, Va., with a few remarks to the point that Grover Cleveland is still a good man, and that there are others, is really not a resurrection. Mr. Harrity has merely been in his cyclone cellar all this time, waiting for the storm to blow over.

The deplorable precipitancy of the United States senate is indicated in its apparent determination to vote on the Cuban reciprocity bill on December 16. Don't these rash men know that this congress has until March 4, 1905, to deliberate?

When each county seat in the United States has a government building there will be other places to hear from. But don't worry about it, they will be heard from.

The United States minister's home was destroyed during the bombardment of San Domingo by the insurgents. But then, it was only a rented house.

Perhaps the United States senate is trying to fix it with regard to Cuba so that there will be something to give thanks for after Thanksgiving day.

With turkey meat at the boom prices quoted in the papers the November national bird will be dearer to Americans than ever before.

As the football difficulties will be all ended this week and The Hague tribunal is busy it isn't worth while to mention arbitration now.

Recognition of the republic of Panama by Germany and France is a pointer to Colombia that it is all over without any shooting.

The 15,000 turkeys that reached Pittsburgh yesterday came high, but there were financial poles long enough to reach them.

Let's see. When was Great Britain's last war with Italy? Anyhow, they have informally agreed not to do it again.

According to the magazines Thanksgiving day happened along some time ago and Christmas is really mere history.

Aspirants for the vacancy on the supreme bench think they would like it much better than the anxious seat.

The price of turkeys isn't causing any worry to the man who is invited out for his Thanksgiving dinner.

Of course, the Colombians wouldn't do a thing to Panama if they could get her back.

The new republic of Panama is now being generally recognized as a good thing.

Joy will be unconfined as long as there is no frost on the pumpkin pie.

Perhaps if Colombia will be good Columbia may annex it some day.

That remark about turkeys roosting high has ceased to be a joke.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

The emperor of Germany has sent four horses as a birthday present to the sultan of turkey.

Samuel H. Gilson, the discoverer of gilsonite, has perfected, he says, after 30 years of experiments, a machine which will solve the problem of aerial navigation.

King Alfonso of Spain, has decided that he will not include Rome in his visits to the several European courts, shortly to be made, to avoid unnecessary embarrassment for the vatican authorities.

Major H. L. Higginson, who has done more for Boston and New England lovers of music than any other man, has just celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday. Major Higginson was responsible, more than any one else, for the founding of the Boston orchestra.

A ball will be given in Savannah, Ga., on December 10 in aid of the fund being raised to erect in that city a monument to the memory of General James Edward Oglethorpe, who, with his followers, 175 years ago laid the foundation of the colony that has grown into the state of Georgia.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Stern as the land before them, and strong as the waters crossed;
Men who had looked on the face of defeat nor counted the battle lost;
Uncrowned rulers and statesmen, shaping their daily need
To the law of brother with brother, till the world stood by to heed;
The sills of a greater empire they hewed and hammered and turned,
And the torch of a larger freedom from their blazing hilltops burned;
Till the old ideals that led them grew dim as a childhood's dream,
And Caste went down in the balance, and Manhood stood supreme.

—Charles F. Lummis.

There is ever a man for the work that must needs be done, no matter how difficult it may be.

This, however, will not excuse negligence or indifference on the part of those who have the care and training of the children who are to become the men and women of the future.

We should understand more clearly and appreciate more fully the great fact that everyone is very much what he inherits. The distinguished Francis Galton, in a lecture on Huxley and his doctrines, advocated a sort of matrimonial Utopia, which would necessarily follow if Huxley's plan were practical.

If only the hearty, vigorous and beautiful transmitted their qualities the race would steadily increase in vigor and beauty, whereas the excessive care taken of the weak, insane, vicious and ugly by modern philanthropy tends, it is held, to degrade the human race. Nature's noblemen alone should be sought out, we are told, and encouraged to marry. Only picked athletes, whose family history has been critically examined, ought to be licensed by the state as marriageables, and young women of like faultless figure, development and charm ought to be mated with them. The parties thus selected should be endowed by the government, as being the hope of the country. Candidates for admission to the ranks of the marriageable would be selected, of course, by competitive tests after medical examinations.

"An enthusiasm to improve the race," says the lecturer, "would probably express itself by granting diplomas to a select class of young men and women, by encouraging their intermarriage, by hastening the time of marriage of women of that class and by provision for rearing healthy children."

Dowries and exemption from taxes would be the happy lot of desirable couples. The prize-winners would occupy a position so admirable in every way that increased numbers of young people would give attention to physical development, with the result that the improvement of the race would be rapidly advanced. The expense of making the system work would fall, of course, upon the other members of the community—the failures—but they would have as compensation the reflection that they were engaged in a public-spirited enterprise.

This is all very nice, on paper, but the terrible fact remains that a good man, one of high civic worth, is not bred and housed and developed the same as a prize pig.

The pauperized beneficiaries of this grand Utopia would naturally become lazy and eventually worthless, as we may well know, or may know if we take the trouble to call to mind the families which we know to have lived at perfect ease, doing only that which they pleased to do. Their children, not having to do anything, very naturally followed the line of least resistance and didn't do a thing but spend the money that had been left to them, and were themselves unprepared and unfitted to do anything on their own account.

Men and women are not guided by instinct alone like other animals. Likes and dislikes are to be considered in establishing happy matrimonial relations. The clever young man may not wish to marry the clever young woman. He usually fancies that he has cleverness enough for both. On the other hand, the young women of vigorous physique and soaring intellect have a will of their own and won't be dictated to in the choice of a husband. As a matter of fact, clever men and clever women do have opportunities and advantages denied to the less favored. They get help and sympathy from those who see their superiority. They do probably as a rule marry earlier than the undesirables. An improvement in the race is in progress without Mr. Galton's artificial arrangement. The world is growing better naturally under the impulse of increased education and fancy schemes dictated by statistics and mathematics will not improve matters.

* * * * *

Were the laws of nature observed to the letter, every man would be the sum of all of his line of forebears and in so much as he improved upon his parents would be clear gain, which in turn he would transmit to his posterity. His sons would possess all of his transmissible qualities and virtues, to which they would add whatsoever they might gain through their own efforts.

Then each generation would be the sum of all preceding generations, and the world would be the gainer by whatsoever each succeeding generation might surpass the preceding. In this way the world would go right on from good to better to the end.

But things don't happen to go that way. Indeed, we find them going the very opposite, if history is reliable, and the present condition of the once foremost people in the world may be taken into account.

Instead of going on from good to better, Rome, when mistress of the world, turned about and went from bad to worse until she landed in the gutter, so to speak. And Greece, with all her intellectual greatness, did likewise, so that now both are living only in their far past histories, much of which is being dug up and brought to light by explorers and adventurers of the present day.

* * * * *

Shall the same be said of us in the course of a few centuries?

If we bear in mind the saying that history repeats itself, and the saying is probably true, we may yet go into the world's scrap pile along with the wrecks of other boasted and beautiful civilizations.

What then? Shall we give up the struggle on the plea that it is no use to fight long and hard only to lose in the end?

Were we to take this view of the matter it wouldn't be long until our institutions would be tumbling down like the row of bricks of which we so often hear.

However, that having been the fate, or rather the destiny, of great and leading nations in the past, may we not argue that this is the order of nature in such matters? Nations are composed of men and are, therefore, like unto men.

If men, as individuals, degenerate does it not follow that nations will do likewise?

As long as men have new fields to explore, new enterprises to promote—in short, as long as they have work enough to keep them employed, they continue to grow and improve. This we know from what we see and learn right here at home. Men who have work to do, and find it necessary to struggle and strive in order to succeed, develop great strength; whereas, their children, and the victims of unearned wealth, refuse to struggle and strive, and go down even more rapidly than the others had come up.

* * * * *

But, supposing our civilization and all our greatness does eventually go to the eternal bow-wows, what need you care? You will not be here to witness the downfall, nor will any of your immediate posterity.

As for yourself you can go on from good to better to the end of your life, and get all that is coming to you in the next life just the same, whether the nation suffers a downfall or not. In fact, it doesn't concern you in the least, since all that you will have to answer for will be the talents given you to improve while you are here.

So don't worry about what may happen centuries hence, but rest assured that if you do what you can, train your children to do what they can and encourage all others to do what they can, you will not only have earned a title to eternal life, safe and secure from the fate that befalls nations, but you will have done much to help the nation to live long and prosper.

Therefore, the proper thing for you is to join in the fray and fight as nobly as you can, striving always to strengthen and support the right rather than wasting your energy wrangling and battling with wrong, for with right established wrong must retreat.

Teach your children to do right rather than not to do wrong.

Anti-Treat Law Constitutional.

The Missouri supreme court has declared the anti-treat law constitutional. This is a sad blow to the saloon hangers-on who depend upon the generosity of others for their liquid refreshment.—Des Moines Register.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Another charge has been made against New York street cars—that they are destroyers of feminine beauty. An Englishwoman who is reputed to have posed as a model for many famous painters of classic subjects in Europe made the declaration today that she "would not ride two blocks in those dreadful affairs for $100." She said that the very shape of the "outrageous benches" was enough to give one curvature of the spine. Then she condemned the "trapeze" which women are obliged to hold when they cannot obtain seats, and remarked that the jostling suffered by women on the ordinary trolley car was killing to the nerves. All kinds of sins have been laid on the cars, but this is something new. The lady who spoke thus severely has the courage of her convictions, for she never rides in a public conveyance of that kind. She says she walks, even long distances, rather than trust her nervous system to the punishment inflicted by the average electric car in action. She wonders that American girls are not humpbacked from riding in cars and she does not regard the gymnasium as a desirable thing for counteracting the evil effects: it is a matter of ocular demonstration that American girls are not humpbacked. That they do ride in cars habitually, sitting on the outrageous benches without acquiring curvature of the spine can also be noted by the most casual observer. Still, the complaint of this English critic is interesting in Pittsburgh and other cities as well as in New York.

Married by the Greek Ritual.

It is not often given to the average New Yorker to see a wedding according to the picturesque and impressive ritual of the Orthodox Greek church. Such an opportunity was afforded yesterday, however, when Josephine, Countess Castelvecchio, became the bride of Cavalier Antonio Frabasilie, eldest son of the duke of Castelsaraceno. The countess is a lineal descendant of Napoleon Bonaparte, her ancestral home being in Corsica. She is well known in Pittsburgh under her stage name of Oldcastle, having been with many important companies. She made a notable hit in New York last season as an excitable countess in the musical comedy, "John Henry."

Doctor's Request Readily Granted.

One should not become so enthusiastic over a football game as to make requests, the granting of which may cause embarrassment. There is a staid divine in New York, who admits that this evening. He is Dr. Cole, rector of Trinity academy, and on Saturday he watched with deep interest the boys of his academy playing the Rugby game on the gridiron of Columbia oval with pupils of Hamilton institute. When his lads asked him to "cut" hours of study in behalf of the football game he said he would on condition that they give him the "mascot" in case they were victorious. It was early yesterday morning when a servant in his home uptown on the West Side was awakened by a violent ring of the front doorbell. She went in a hurry. As the door opened a lively young pig was thrust into the hall by several young men who walked away rapidly. The doctor got rid of the porker at daylight, but had to entertain him until breakfast time. It was a lesson to him, he said, not to make rash demands in future.

Another Elevated Mishap.

The Brooklyn "L" seems to be under a hoodoo just now. Another collision took place today. It was a rear-end smash. While nothing like that of last week in the damage to life and limb, it was severe enough to make regular passengers in Brooklyn nervous.

Rural Prophets Decide on Hard Winter.

New York can produce more weather sharps to the square mile than any big city this side of the Blue ridge. Most of the prophets come in from New Jersey and Long Island, and are to be met around the markets in the early morning. All predict a severe winter. They say that turties and snakes are hibernating deep and that the squirrels have cleaned up all the nuts. These signs are regarded as conclusive although there are many more which are familiar to the bucolic understanding everywhere. It may be a "white" Thanksgiving, according to some of the prophets, while all agree that there must be heavy snow at Christmas, if natural indications count for anything in this degenerate age.

Building Boom Looms Up Ahead.

Although the building boom is some distance away it is remarked that the hopeful disposition of the New Yorker is apparent on all sides. Word comes from architects' offices that plans on hand indicate a great deal of building in the year 1904 and men who have been idling their time away for months at the behest of walking delegates are thankful that brighter prospects have come to them. Besides the two great stations of the Pennsylvania railroad and New York Central there will be a number of other extensive building operations in the course of the year. The money which has been withdrawn from speculation will be put into iron, brick and mortar as well as into the wags of skilled labor. It is the general conviction that 1904 will be a wonderfully busy year in New York, especially in the building trades. Such a period of prosperity is about due, beyond all question.

Shade Around Rockefeller Home.

It is a whim of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller to have plenty of shade around her country home at Pocantico hills. Obeying the mandate of the queen of the household the Standard Oil king has received three carloads of maple trees, valued at $4,000, which will be planted on either side of the $10,000 public road which he has laid out from Pocantico to North Tarrytown. Besides these, Mr. Rockefeller is planting 1,000 rare trees around his mansion. He had to send to all parts of the country to get the varieties he wanted.

Opening of Opera Season.

Broadway is brighter and more lively tonight than it has been any time this winter—that is, in the neighborhood of Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets. It is the opening of the grand opera season. The men and boys shouting "librettoes. Here y' are, words and music of the opery! Fifteen cents! All the words and music," are as obtrusive as ever, while the growled instructions of policemen, the objurgations of cabbies and private coachmen, and the tinkle of feminine laughter, mingled with little shrieks of dismay as daintily dressed women scuttle across the sidewalk into the big lobby—all are as natural as if they had not been unheard for many months. New York loves its grand opera. The opening night is the big occasion and the crowds of spectators who never see the inside of the Metropolitan opera house are seemingly as satisfied as the fashionable multitude jostling its way in, anxious to see what Herr Conreid has provided.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—All this talk about the Hanna presidential boom finds little credence here in Washington. Hanna's friends scoff at it and those who pretend to keep up with political affairs take no stock in it whatever. Senator Platt of New York, whose legs may be a little shaky with age, but whose head is still on his shoulders and who generally knows what is going on in national politics, has been besieged for a statement on the latest Hanna boom which Governor Odell of New York is credited with fostering.

"There is nothing to do but nominate President Roosevelt," said Senator Platt. "You couldn't induce Hanna to take the nomination. If I had Hanna by the throat with one hand and the nomination in the other, I couldn't force him to swallow it."

When Senator Hanna was told of this unique manner in which Senator Platt had expressed himself, he said:

"Platt knows his business."

"And he said that if he had you by the throat with one hand and the nomination in the other, he couldn't force you to swallow it," said the interviewer.

"Platt's about right," agreed Senator Hanna. And that's what people generally think here. Hanna is not a candidate and will not be a candidate. He has said so on various occasions, but some of his misguided friends continue to keep his boom alive by shouting and it is even hinted that his enemies have a hand in it for the purpose of trying to make a breach between him and the president. But Mr. Hanna and Mr. Roosevelt seem to be the two persons least interested in the Hanna boom.

An Agreement on the Cuban Bill.

It has been agreed between the Democrats and Republicans of the senate that a vote shall be taken on the Cuban reciprocity bill on December 16 and that the time between December 7 and December 16 shall be devoted exclusively to the debate on that bill. Senators who are interested in the bill say that such an agreement would be a complete victory for the administration since it would assure a vote and the passage of the bill on the date agreed upon. Without an agreement as to the time for a vote there is no telling when the bill would pass, since a vote cannot be taken on any measure in the senate without unanimous consent. But the agreement reached among the senators does not carry with it the adjournment of the extra session. That cannot be done except with the consent of the house and that has not been obained. Speaker Cannon and other house leaders are still strongly opposed to adjournment of the session without the passage of the bill and at this time there is little prospect of them entering into any such agreement. The speaker said tonight that no arrangement for adjournment had been made and he found many of the representatives against the proposition. As matters now stand any member of the house can prevent such an agreement. There is not a quorum of the house present in Washington and if this point is raised the house would not be able to take action on a resolution of adjournment and the senate would be obliged to remain in session, although it might not transact any business. Thus the house appears to have the upper hand in the matter and unless it yields the extra session is likely to continue until it naturally expires on December 7.

Quay and Penrose Nicely Fixed.

Senators Quay and Penrose of Pennsylvania both obtained very desirable committee assignments in the distribution of these honors in this congress. Each has a chairmanship and besides that has a membership on the most important committees of the senate. Senator Quay is chairman of the committee on organization, conduct and expenditures of the executive departments, which does not average a meeting more than once a session and which has scarcely anything to do. But it gives Senator Quay the use of a committee room and that is all he cares for. His prestige and experience in the senate would entitle him to the chairmanship of one of the big committees if he wished it, but he does not. He is also a member of the following committees: Agricultural and forestry appropriations, Indian affairs, public buildings and grounds, territories. Senator Penrose has the chairmanship of the committee on postoffices and post roads, one of the most important in the senate. He also has one of the most desirable committee rooms, with a private room adjoining. He is also a member of the following committees: Commerce, education and labor, finance, immigration and naval affairs. Besides these he is a member of the select committee on national banks.

Queen Lil Presses Her Claim.

Queen Lilluokalani, former ruler of Hawaii, believes that she will be able during this session of congress to collect her claim of $200,000 against the government for crown lands that were seized after she was deposed. Queen Lil has tried to get this money before, but she has not been successful and why she is so sanguine this year cannot be learned. Prince Cupid, the Hawaiian delegate to congress, has taken a house in the northwest section of the city, and the former queen will make her home with him while she is here. Prince Cupid will look after her claim before this congress. Neither he nor Queen Lil will discuss the matter further than to say that they believe the claim is a just one and that the government will recognize it as such.

Band Concerts for Washington Parks.

Col. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, has a plan that will interest visitors to Washington during next summer. He will provide band concerts every week day evening or afternoon in the parks from June 1 to October 15. The Marine band, the Engineer band at Washington barracks and the Cavalry band from Fort Meyer will furnish the music, each band giving two concerts a week. These concerts will be given in the White House grounds, the Smithsonian institute grounds and in other parks throughout the district. This arrangement will not only be a pleasing one for the residents of Washington, but it will be equally entertaining to the thousands of tourists who visit Washington during the summer.

Day's Picture Completes Collection.

An oil portrait of former Secretary of State William R. Day, now justice of the supreme court, was delivered to the state department today and will be hung in the diplomatic room. It was painted by Albert Rosenthal of Philadelphia. With this portrait the state department has a complete collection of paintings of secretaries of state from Thomas Jefferson to John Hay.

Quay Files Petitions.

Senator Quay today introduced a bill admitting to statehood the territory of Oklahoma. It is the same bill as has been introduced in the house by Delegate McGuire of that territory. Mr. Quay also presented a number of petitions, one being from the grain and flour exchange of Pittsburgh, asking for legislation to enlarge the powers of the interstate commerce commission. Another was from the Sewickley Presbyterian church of West Newton, Pa., asking for legislation to regulate interstate traffic of intoxicating liquors. Others were petitions asking for prompt action on the charges filed against Senator Smoot.

Veterans Push Pension Bill.

Senator Penrose today presented the petition of G. A. R. Post No. 345 of Waterford, Pa., requesting the passage of a service pension law. Tomorrow Senator Penrose will introduce a bill to pension all ex-prisoners of war. It will provide a pension of $2 per diem for each day of incarceration endured by the Union prisoners in Confederate prisons during the dates of May 25, 1861, and May 1, 1865. It will also give each ex-prisoner a pension of $12 per month.

As Iowa Sees It.

The speech of the veteran representative Hepburn of Iowa, on the tariff phase of the Cuban reciprocity bill confirmed the conclusion, at which we had some time since arrived, that the "Iowa idea," as understood in Iowa, is to support the candidates and policy of the Republican party with perfect consistency and heartiness. Admitting that a tariff schedule is not to him a part of Holy Writ, from which nothing is ever to be taken and to which nothing is ever to be added, Mr. Hepburn declares that the Republican party is the only agency that is fit to alter the schedules, and that, so far as the present situation is concerned, he believes in letting well enough alone. The country stands with Mr. Hepburn on this Iowa platform. Every utterance of every republican leader in congress shows that the people's wishes in this matter are not misunderstood.—New York Mail and Express.

The Death Roll.

Oliver Shannon.

Oliver Shannon, 82 years old, father of Burgess John Shannon of Emsworth, died yesterday of pneumonia at his home in Beaver avenue, Emsworth. He was a well-known business man of the borough and had been a resident of that vicinity for almost 50 years. Mr. Shannon was a native of Ireland and came to America in 1850. After working in the glass works in this city and on the Pennsylvania railroad, he settled on a farm near Emsworth. He later moved to Franklin township, where he followed the occupation of a farmer for a short time. Returning to Emsworth he opened the general store at present conducted by his son, John. About 20 years ago he retired from business. Besides his son, Burgess Shannon, he is survived by his widow, two sons, David Shannon of Allegheny, and Robert Shannon, a resident of California, and two daughters, Miss Margaret Shannon and Mrs. S. A. Crawford of Michigan. He is also survived by 10 grandchildren. Mr. Shannon was a member of the Emsworth Presbyterian church. Funeral services will be held at his late home at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Capt. John Greenough.

Capt. John Greenough, for years the secretary and treasurer of the Eads Bridge Company, is dead at St. Louis. He was a native of Pittsburgh, and was formerly a well-known captain on the Ohio river. He was attending an informal dinner at the home of some friends at which a number of the leading members of the Masonic fraternity were present. While the dinner was in progress, Greenough threw his hands above his head and fell over and died in a short time. He was a prominent Mason, and being a bachelor, was a generous entertainer in his own apartments in the Colonial apartment house. During the war he was chief clerk in the quartermaster's department at Cincinnati. He had been identified with steamboating and had commanded boats on both the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. He was assistant city treasurer and upon his retirement from office, became an officer of the Eads Bridge Company. He was also secretary of the Merchants Bridge Terminal road. He was born in Pittsburgh in 1838 and received his early education in this city.

Dr. Charles Schaffer.

Dr. Charles Schaffer, the well-known scientist, and a member of many learned societies, died yesterday in his sixty-sixth year at his home, No. 1309 Arch street, Philadelphia. His death was due to heart failure which followed a severe cold. Dr. Schaffer came of an old and well-known Philadelphia family. He was much interested in the natural sciences and their applications, and early in life took an active part in the management of the Academy of Natural Sciences. He was also a member of the American Philosophical society, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the Franklin institute, the Photographic Society of Philadelphia, the Philadelphia County Medical society, the Orpheus club, the American association for the Advancement of Science and the American Society of Mining Engineers. He was an original member of the Art club.

Mrs. John Lowry, Sr.

Mrs. Matilda Lowry, aged 74, wife of John Lowry, Sr., one of Homestead's oldest residents, died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Munhall, No. 223 East Fifteenth street, Homestead, after a long illness. Mrs. Lowry was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, and came to America when very young. With her husband she moved to Homestead in 1872 and had resided in that vicinity since. She is survived by her husband, one son, John K. Lowry, a member of the Homestead borough council, and one daughter, Mrs. Munhall.

Mrs. Margaret Cunningham.

Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, an aged resident of Beaver, Pa., was found dead in bed by her daughter yesterday. She was 88 years old. Her husband was the late Judge Thomas Cunningham, a war judge appointed by President Buchanan for Topeka, Kans. She leaves four daughters, Mrs. James Cameron, widow at home; Mrs. E. P. McClain, wife of a member of the Virginia legislature, of Abbeville, near Richmond; Mrs. C. W. Martin, of Austin, Ill., and Mrs. Joseph Russell of Chicago.

Mr. Sutman had been a teacher in the schools of Westmoreland county for 20 years. He came to Monessen from West Newton, where he was for five years principal of the schools. He was elected two years ago as assistant to Prof. S. W. Himiock of the Monessen city schools and was principal of the high school. A widow and four children survive him.

CHURCH MAY BE IN DELEGATION

Being Talked of as a Representative of Thirtieth District in National Convention.

BIGELOW AND LARKIN MEET

Friends of Col. Samuel Harden Church are discussing him as a candidate for one of the Republican national delegates to be chosen from the Thirtieth Congressional district. He lives in the Twentieth ward.

Col. Church is assistant secretary of the Pennsylvania company and is also widely known as an author. While he has never taken a very active interest in politics he has been a supporter of the regular Republican ticket. So far, he is the only person mentioned in the Dalzell district.

Thomas J. Ford, chairman of the Republican county committee, yesterday denied the report that he wanted to go to the national convention from the Twenty-ninth district. He says he will not be a candidate, as he believes in handing such honors around, and the office of chairman of the Republican county committee is sufficient honor for him at present.

Republican primaries will not be advanced to January, as has been suggested. Under the rules, 60 days' notice of a change has to be given, and that would be impossible now. Republican leaders generally believe that it would be unfair to take such action. After the national Republican committee has fixed a date for the national convention the time for holding the primaries will be agreed upon by the county committee, and every Republican desirous of going into the primaries will be given plenty of time to make a contest.

James Francis Burke said yesterday that he intended to be a candidate at the Republican primaries for congressman in the Thirty-first district. He says he has no desire to have the nominating election advanced and will be satisfied with any date agreed upon by the county committee. This district is now represented in congress by H. K. Porter, elected by the Citizens.

Thomas S. Bigelow called upon Controller John B. Larkin in his office yesterday. They were together for about a half hour. After their conference Councilman W. H. Stevenson, chairman of the Orphans' party, was closeted with Mr. Larkin.

The controller admitted that politics was the topic discussed in the conference with Bigelow. He insists that no concessions were made on either side and that there will be no change in the program of the "Orphans" by reason of the meeting. Quite frequently one hears that Larkin is endeavoring to force the Citizens to slate him for mayor to succeed Hays. The controller was asked if Bigelow made any mayoralty propositions to him, and this was the reply:

"The subject was not discussed. I know my size, if the mayoralty nomination were offered me on a golden platter I would not accept it."

JOHN WILKES, A LEADER OF ENGLISH LIBERTY

Character and Struggles of an Interesting Politcian Discussed by Dr. Howard.

"John Wilkes, a Statesman-like Demagogue," was the subject of the lecture given last night before the University Extension society by Dr. George Elliott Howard in the lecture hall of the Carnegie institute. Wilkes, although seemingly a leader by means of catering to the whims of the populace, was a scholar and a natural leader of men. Dr. Howard classes him among the six great leaders of social liberty of England. John Wilkes was a prominent figure in English politics in the latter half of the eighteenth century.

Wilkes' character, education and habits showed that he was not in advance of his age, which was immoral publicly and privately. But he had many excellent qualities which gained him admittance into the best society, and he made friends with the best men of France during the period he was outlawed from England. The story of the "General Warrants," papers of interest to the historical and legal student, was carefully unfolded, and Wilkes here won one of his first great fights for civil liberty.

Dr. Howard told several anecdotes exhibiting the impudence and wit Wilkes exhibited even under trying circumstances. He was also a courageous man, morally and physically. The lecture showed Wilkes' life to have been one long struggle for the betterment of the English people. After winning the struggles against the "General Warrants" and his ejection from the house of commons, Wilkes started a crusade to have the debates of the house of commons published and finally won again. Dr. Howard in concluding said, "Although he may have been a irate man-nae demagogue for what he has done he deserves considerable credit."

ONE MEMBER'S ABSENCE PREVENTED MEETING

Peculiar Ruling of Sub-Committee Blocks Action on Railroad Ordinances.

Sub-committees of select council having possession of the railroad ordinances have framed the peculiar rule that two-thirds of the membership of a committee does not constitute a quorum. Another example of this rule was given yesterday afternoon when Louis T. Schneider and Harry W. Diehl, two of the three members of a sub-committee of the committee on surveys, decided that they could not do business unless the third member was present.

John J. Shankel, the third member of the committee, was absent and Schneider and Diehl decided that they would not meet without Shankel. The committee had been called to consider eight ordinances for street vacations on the South Side for the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad, a branch of the Pennsylvania.

Similar action was taken about two weeks ago by a sub-committee of the corporations committee of select council which was called to consider the Baltimore & Ohio, the Wabash and the Pennsylvania ordinances for the Monongahela and Allegheny wharfs. Two of the three members of the sub-committee were present but they refused to hold a meeting until the three members were present. The missing member at the former meeting was John Benz.

THE RACE

Does not depend on the start but on the finish. It's staying power which carries many a runner to victory. It's like that in business. Many a man starts off in the race for business success with a burst of speed which seems to assure victory. Presently he begins to falter and at last he falls and fails. The cause? Generally "stomach trouble." No man is stronger than his stomach. Business haste leads to careless and irregular eating. The stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition become diseased. The body is inadequately nourished and so grows weak.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the stomach and so strengthens the whole body which depends on the stomach for the nourishment from which strength is made.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is no medicine "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and allied organs.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has performed a wonderful cure," writes Mr. M. H. House, of Charleston, Franklin Co., Ark. "I had the worst case of dyspepsia the doctors say that they ever saw. After trying seven doctors and everything I could hear of, with no benefit, I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and now I am cured."

Cured of Backache.

Member of the Businss Men's League and one of the best known business men in St. Louis, Mo. Read what Mr. Wand has to say about Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure:

"I know what it is to be afflicted with backache and I sympathize with fellow sufferers. After swallowing various and frequent nauseating doses of this and that prescription I decided that if Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure could not rid me of those backaches it at least would not do me any harm and I procured a bottle.

"Now the first bottle didn't stop those wearing backaches, but it did afford me great relief. The second bottle, however, did effectually put a stop to those racking backaches. Occasionally they returned when strenuous business affairs exhausted the physical forces, but a dose or two of Dr. Fenner's Cure gave instant relief.

PLEADED GUILTY AND ASKED MERCY

Court-Martial of Captain Schaffer of 18th Regiment on Serious Charges.

FATE RESTS WITH GEN. MILLER

With Maj.-Gen. Charles Miller, division commander of the national guard of Pennsylvania, rests the fate of Capt. Rudolph H. Schaffer of Company L, Eighteenth regiment, who was tried yesterday by a court-martial on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. The finding of the court and the decision of Gen. Miller will be made public in general orders, which will be issued within 20 days from the date of the court's sitting. Capt. Schaffer pleaded guilty to the charge, but not guilty to the specifications, and made a lengthy speech in his own behalf.

The hearing was held in the regimental armory at Forbes and Craft avenue and attracted a large turnout of the officers. Half a score of witnesses were examined, and when the court adjourned the opinion prevailed that a stern form of punishment would be imposed upon the officer. The penalties for the offense may be suspension, a fine and suspension, or dishonorable discharge. Capt. Schaffer has been an energetic officer and his work in behalf of the organization was held up as a strong point in his favor.

Charges Against the Captain.

The charges against Capt. Schaffer resulted from his connection with the regimental benefit last May in the Alvin theater. With Lieuts. B. S. Ralston and C. G. Hussey, he was appointed to manage the benefit and had charge of the advertising in the program. It was decided by the committee that no funds should be solicited, but contrary to this, it is alleged, Schaffer employed a solicitor to collect funds for the regiment's benefit and paid the man a commission of 40 per cent. The money collected in this way amounted to $500, and after the solicitor's commission had been paid, it is alleged the balance was deposited by Schaffer in the Freehold bank to his own private account.

Witnesses from the representatives of the firms which had subscribed funds for the solicitor testified last night that the money had been duly paid. R. S. Robb of the Hostetter Company stated that the captain came to him and asked for a subscription for a new drill hall for the regiment. The witness in behalf of his firm gave a check for $100. This check, he said, was duly returned through the bank and bore the indorsement of Capt. Schaffer, chairman, and also as an individual. The check was offered in evidence.

Testimony of Those Who Donated.

William C. Retts of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, testified that his concern had given $50, with the understanding that the money was for the benefit of the regiment. William L. Hurd of the Monongahela Tube Company said that he had given a similar amount. George D. Kelley, general manager of the Elite Publishing Company, representative of the Oil Well Supply Company, and Lieuts. Ralston and Hussey testified in a similar vein.

Capt. Schaffer was not represented by counsel and took the stand in his own defense. He reiterated in former statement that he had intended to throw himself upon the mercy of his brother officers by making public the whole transaction at a meeting of the regiment. He said that he had paid his solicitor 40 per cent, but that he had been willing, if time were given him, to pay back all. He called attention of the court to work he had done for the regiment and reminded his prosecutors that he had devoted the most of his time to make the entertainment a success.

The finding of the court will not be announced until the reviewing officer's approval shall be made. The evidence and the records will be forwarded to Gen. Miller, and his announcement will be made in general orders according to regular military procedure. The officers of the court were:

Col. W. E. Thompson of the Fourteenth regiment, president; Maj. E. F. McCormick, of the Second brigade staff, judge advocate; Maj. H. C. Cuthbert and Capt. Blaine Aiken, Tenth regiment; Maj. J. H. Bigger, Eighteenth regiment; Capt. A. C. Crookston, Fourteenth regiment; Capt. C. W. S. Jones, Sheridan troop; Capt. John B. Guthrie, Eighteenth regiment.

United Labor League Issues Circulars Urging All Unions to Affiliate.

The United Labor league has sent out circulars to all unions in Western Pennsylvania urging them to affiliate with the league. The circular reasons why all organizations should be affiliated. In part it reads as follows:

It is apparent that existing industrial conditions and the general economic trend demand a closer alliance and a more systematic co-operation among the labor organizations regardless of craft or calling. We believe that this altruism and co-operation can be secured through a strong central organization, thereby enabling the affiliated organizations to keep in touch and aid and assist each other in all matters of mutual interest, and to consider all matters which concern their respective organizations in regard to their relations to each other, to the employers and to the general labor movement. The United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania is organized for this purpose and desires to have your organization affiliated with us.

DR. CHAPMAN LIKELY TO HEAD THE MOVEMENT

Plans Arranged for the Evangelistic Crusade to Be Held Here.

The central committee in charge of the coming evangelistic movement to be held in Pittsburgh this winter held a meeting yesterday and discussed plans. It is stated that in all probability Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman will lead the movement. Circulars were placed in the hands of the committeemen yesterday announcing arrangements definitely. The letters will be sent to all the churches of Pittsburgh and vicinity, and an effort will be made to induce all churches to join in the cause. The circular tells of the committees appointed, and of all the plans for the meeting so far, as follows:

There shall be a general committee of five persons from each denomination co-operating in the movement.

There shall be a grouping of the churches of the city and county into districts, as outlined and described by the Allegheny County Bible School association in its report for 1900-1901—42 districts in all.

There shall be a committee of pastors appointed in each district to arrange for a conference with their brother ministers, and to promote, if deemed expedient, a union evangelistic effort, and that for one week immediately preceding the central evangelistic meeting, each district shall hold union meetings for conference and prayer.

Pastors, sessions, consistories and church councils shall be urged to arrange at once for prayer circles, to meet either in the churches or homes, whose aim shall be to a deeper study of the word of God in its promises and provisions of grace, and definite prayer for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit for the salvation of the unsaved.

Meetings for men and meetings for women shall be held at such points as may be most convenient, for conference and prayer.

There shall be a finance committee of 15 persons who shall finance the whole plan.

There shall be a series of central evangelistic meetings of two weeks' duration, to be held at various points, the following being suggested: The downtown districts, the East End and Carnegie Music hall, Allegheny and such other points as may seem wise.

There shall be a continuance of the series immediately following the central evangelistic meetings for one week in each of the districts agreed upon.

There shall be a continuance of the series in the individual churches and the observance of a special day of devotion, both in the congregations and in the Sabbath schools, at the discretion of pastors, sessions, consistories and councils.

There shall be a special day of devotion in the Union Ministerial association on the second Monday of January, 1904.

There shall be meetings of the Allegheny County Bible School association, the Sabbath school superintendents, representatives of young peoples' societies and representatives of the women's societies of the churches, for conference and prayer.

There shall be an invitation extended to the churches of the neighboring counties and towns to co-operate in this evangelistic campaign.

The Rev. John McKee of Beaver Falls delivered an address on "Pauline Uses of Righteousness" before the ministerial meeting of the Christian church, held at the First church, Allegheny, yesterday morning. The Rev. W. J. Russell of East Pittsburgh talked on "What and Where is the Christian Church." The Rev. Z. T. Sweeny, ex-consul to the Ottoman empire, now of Columbus, Ind., was a visitor. Twenty-five ministers were present.

PRESIDENT CASSATT OF THE P. R. R. HERE AGAIN

Long Conference Held With Pittsburgh Officials at Pitcairn Last Night—Land Purchases for Yards in Sharpsburg.

President A. J. Cassatt, accompanied by other officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, arrived in Pitcairn last evening preparatory to making an inspection of the terminals in Pittsburgh. While the object of the present visit of President Cassatt is not publicly known, it is supposed to be for the purpose of closing up a number of real estate deals. Among these will be purchases in the borough of Sharpsburg, where large freight yards will be built. While in the city during the day he will devote his time to the lines east alone.

At Sharpsburg it is proposed to have classification yards large enough to take care of the business from the lines west to the West Penn and the Herrs Island stockyards. The first purchases of real estate in Sharpsburg were made some time ago, but recently the agents of the Pennsylvania were instructed to take options on the remaining land required and discontinue purchases. These options will be closed as soon as possible. The yards will extend from Fifth street to the borough line toward Aspinwall, and from Main street, Sharpsburg, to the Allegheny river. The capacity of the yards is not known.

Accompanying President Cassatt are Charles E. Pugh, second vice president, General Manager W. W. Atterbury and General Superintendent G. W. Creighton. S. C. Long, superintendent of the Pittsburgh division, met the party in Altoona. President Cassatt had sent instructions ahead to have the various transportation officials in Pittsburgh, along with Robert Pitcairn, resident assistant, meet him in Pitcairn upon his arrival there at 7 o'clock. A conference lasting until quite late was held.

At 8 o'clock this morning the party will leave Pitcairn over the Brinton cut-off for the South Side, which will give the president an opportunity of seeing the new bridge at Fort Pitt. The special will then come direct to the Union station and thence to the Herrs Island stockyards via the Allegheny Valley. Sharpsburg will then be visited, and the party will return east over the West Penn.

IRISH AND ITALIANS HAVE DESPERATE ROW

Battle Rages Below Surface and Spectators Pelt Combatants With Stones.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Fifty Irishmen and 45 Italians fought in a fierce riot for almost an hour this afternoon 50 feet below the level of Broadway and Twenty-ninth street, where excavations for the erection of a skyscraper are being made.

Pickaxes, shovels and sledges were used in the fight, and when the police reserves from the Nineteenth precinct finally lowered themselves by chains among the fighting mass of men and succeeded in quelling the riot many of the men were bleeding and torn.

After the police had been beaten back, and the police reached the scene, citizens lined the walls about the excavations and hurled rocks and stones among the warring factions below. Many of the missiles went true to the mark and many heads were struck.

The fight started over a misunderstanding resulting from orders given by the foreman to two Italians. They rebelled at the orders, and one of them seizing a shovel started toward the foreman. From these men the fight spread, the Italians taking sides with their countrymen and the Irish backing up the foreman.

CARNEGIE LIKES MAGEE SITE.

Favored Location for New High School Is a Good One, He Says.

Andrew Carnegie is glad that the central board of education has chosen the property of ex-Judge Christopher Magee as a site for the new high school. In a letter received yesterday by President W. N. Frew of the Carnegie Institute board he said:

I hear with intense satisfaction that the Central board of education is likely to purchase 11½ acres in Forbes street, connecting with the technical school site and close to the library building. The grouping of educational institutions is of a value not often appreciated. One reacts upon the other. I doubt if any city will possess such a spectacle as our own good city of Pittsburgh if this intention be realized. You make me happy by the mere suggestion of it.

BABY TO BE BURIED IN THE POTTER'S FIELD

Sympathetic Persons Bring Flowers to Deck the Murdered Infant at the Morgue.

The baby that was found dead, supposedly murdered, on Saturday morning at the foot of Fortieth street, having been evidently killed by being thrown down the 30-foot embankment, will be buried from the morgue today in Highwood cemetery, in the plot for the unidentified dead. Nobody has come forward to identify the child, which was about six months old, although scores of persons, a few sympathetic and some morbid, have been in the morgue to look at it. Although the baby's face is badly cut, the body partly decomposed and an ugly sight altogether, the attendant at the morgue permitted women with babies in arms and leading children six and seven years old by the hand, to look at the body. One woman became ill at the sight and almost let her own baby fall last night.

Gertrude Goldmer, 11 years old, of No. 435 Diamond street, yesterday brought a flower to the morgue, to be laid upon the child's breast, and later Ella Wilson, colored, living at No. 305 Addison street, brought in some roses. The woman had read of the child and in giving the flowers remarked: "I'm colored, but I have a heart." A woman asked if she could give clothing to bury the child in and another said she would give a coffin.

THREE HELD IN MURDER CASE.

Coroner's Jury Investigated Shooting of Farmer Bengele at Glenfield.

David Morrow was held on a charge of murder and Samuel Ritchie and Ellis Merriman were held as witnesses by the coroner's jury yesterday after the inquest into the death of Adolph Bengele, an aged farmer who was found dead in his coal shed near Glenfield, on the Pittsburgh & Ft. Wayne railroad on October 12. Each of the three men testified that they had known the murdered man many years, but none said he ever had a quarrel with him.

Henry Bengele, brother of the dead man, testified that on the evening preceding the finding of the body he had met the three men in an intoxicated condition, coming down the road from the vicinity of his brother's house. David Morrow had testified that Merriman had taken a gun to his house the day before the murder. The three men were sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

NEELY MUST SHOW TITLE TO MONEY

United States Attachment on Cash Securily Is Held to Be Valid.

NICE LAW POINT INVOLVED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.

Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court today handed down an opinion declining to dismiss the motion made by Charles F. W. Neely to vacate the attachment filed by the United States against $20,000 in cash deposited by him as bail with the register of the United States circuit court in this district. In his opinion Judge Lacombe states that the legal questions involved are too important to be finally passed upon on a mere motion and suggests that the questions be properly raised.

Neely was arrested in this city in 1900 and deposited $20,000 in cash bail for his appearance in Cuba for trial on a charge of embezzling $45,375 from the postal funds. Subsequently he was convicted, but was saved from the consequences of his crime by the act of amnesty, which, in his case, as in that of all other Americans convicted there, operated as a pardon.

Captain William S. Ball, assistant United States district attorney, submitted a brief on behalf of the government in opposition to the motion which the court sustains, contending that the pardon did not remove the vested rights of others, nor could it be construed to deprive others of rights which had never been divested, and that Neely, having wrongfully converted the money to his own use, could not by such act legally invest himself with the title to Cuba's money. That, when the pardon wiped out the crime of Neely with its consequences to him, it could not be held to work injury to Cuba as would be the case if Neely were given the money which had never been legally his.

FRANK A. PARKER.

VERDICT FOR THE BANK.

But the Jury Sustains the Pittsburgh Expert.

WAYNESBURG, PA., Nov. 23.—One of the most interesting forgery cases that has ever been tried in the courts of Greene county terminated today in a verdict for the defendant, the Citizens National Bank, of Waynesburg, on an action by Charles Denney, a former depositor of the bank, to recover on a number of checks alleged by Denney to be forgeries.

Aside from the question of the genuineness of the signatures, that of sufficient notice to the bank was considered a very important point in the case, the defense contending that Denney failed to notify the bank promptly of his alleged discovery that the checks were forgeries, and thereby forfeited his right to recover under the law.

As to the genuineness of the signatures alleged to be forgeries, the defense produced a number of bank cashiers representing all the local banks, who testified that, in their judgment, the signatures in question were genuine. Mr. George W. Wood, the Pittsburgh expert in accounts and handwriting, testified that the disputed signatures were forgeries and occupied the greater part of a day in demonstrating, with the aid of crayon and microscope, the character of the writing in question.

The jury was out all night and did not render a verdict until 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The verdict sets forth that the disputed checks were forgeries, but that notice to the bank was not sufficient.

PLUNGER WATSON HAS MANY DEBTS

Lawyers Probe Personal Statement of Liabilities in Bankruptcy Court.

BORROWED FROM ARMOUR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Extensive private interests of James S. Watson former president of the Porter Brothers Company, were revealed before Bankruptcy Referee Wean today. Attorney Albert Bach of New York using the schedule of the witness' personal debts and assents as a basis for his examination.

It was shown that the witness was interested as stockholder in half dozen or more large corporations, as well as the owner of much real estate, now heavily mortgaged. The private schedules of Mr. Watson showed his debts to be $1,295,000, much of which was contracted on account of the concern of which he was formerly president. Of the total liabilities, only $164,375 were secured by shares of stock. It was for the purpose of learning the probable value of these securities that the New York lawyer pressed the inquiry.

Mr. Watson's revelations regarding the large rebates received by him from the Fruit Growers' Express Company, amounting it is said, to at least $1,800,000 has led the attorneys to search for other evidence on this matter. For the purpose of getting more details they have subpoenaed J. Ogden Armour and J. S. Robbins to appear before Referee Wean November 30. Mr. Armour is said to be the principal backer of the Fruit Growers' Express Company, while Mr. Robbins is its manager. Attorney Joseph DeFrees, representing Mr. Watson, was angry at the charges made against his client. He said there had been practically no suggestion of fraudulent transactions on the part of Mr. Watson. The schedules of Mr. Watson, presented before Referee Wean, show the following secured claims: John E. Bleekman, New York, $68,000; Armour & Co., $65,000; Fruit Auction Company, New York, for $10,000.

There are other smaller claims for which securities were given. The list of assets filed includes large blocks of stock in a number of companies, most of which are hypothecated, and real estate, which is heavily mortgaged. When questioned as to where the money came to buy these stocks Mr. Watson said he had borrowed from the Armours. He was not positive whether he had bought some with money drawn out of the Porter Brothers Company. The referee continued the case until January.

THANKSGIVING WEEK IN THEATERS

Alvin—Miss Anna Held.

Gorgeous costumes. An array of gowns that would make the most versatile modiste fall ill with amazement, if not envy, and along with these, a magnificence and prodigality of stage equipment, a riot of color, motley at times, but changing and shifting into semblance and shape of beauty and orderliness.

This is the apotheosis of Anna Held.

Jean Richepin has contributed a brief story of some dramatic interest in the second act, and, with consistent reference to the legendary admiration of Napoleon for the celebrated Mlle Mars, the actress of the Comedie Francaise. The story is pathetic in part, and recounts the attempt on the part of Fouche, the minister of police, to ruin a young officer of the Imperial guard, the finace of the actress, and at the same time arrange an intrigue between the devoted little woman and the emperor himself. The plot is frustrated by Mlle Mars herself, who saves her lover and by her frankness and modesty wins the esteem of her emperor. This is M. Richepin's story. Americanized by Joseph Herbert there is only the barest outline left. For the rest we must thank Mr. Herbert and Mr. Gustav Luders, who wrote the music, some of which is exceedingly good, though Mr. Luders has nowhere approximated the dignity of the original Richepin story. As a drama set to music there were basic possibilities of somewhat unusual and brilliant kind for the composer. Either Mr. Luders could not reach them or else he kept in mind his star and the popular demand for light musical scores. On this basis there may be praise given a dainty little quintette in the first act, a duet, "I'll Love You Then as Now," in the same act, and one or two tempestous march songs in the third act, one a military motif with a semi-coon song accompaniment, to which the gallery caught on and whistled with great glee.

In other directions M. Richepin's book has been mutilated in the interests of "musical comedy." The comedy that has been lugged in is of exceedingly doleful kind and neither Messrs. Herbert nor McAvoy are equal to what there is of it. These two usually good comedians are wholly at sea in roles assembled for two thieves in "Erminie," and no where secure the attention that under other circumstances they might deserve.

Miss Anna Held is, of course, the center around which all this magnificence of scenery and costume revolves, and, sartorially. Miss Held is quite the most beautifully costumed gem in the kaleidoscope of colors. Her changes of gown are numerous and startling in their various gradations upward, or downward, as you see fit to take them. But, alas! Miss Held is not equal to M. Richepin's semi-serious intentions. She is not an actress, she is a deft and chic music hall artiste, if you will, but her efforts to do serious work only accentuates the music hall genre. Miss Held is the same, except for a touch of ennui, and some faint signs of advancing time in its touches upon face and form. Beyond this the entire production is saturated with Miss Held's theatrical origin. It swings into many beautiful and dazzling phases and assumes many splendid shapes; but it never swings out of the music hall atmosphere, posturing and suggestion. The third act, showing the interior of the Grand opera house, Paris, is a splendidly devised piece of stage scenery, while the concluding tableaus are beautiful examples of stage richness and artistic color scheme.

Of the people who support Miss Held there are several worthy of note. Mr. Arthur Lawrence plays Napoleon with dignity and a better command of the difficult illusion required than is usually found in the character. Henry Bergman is an excellent Fouche, if a little cold and deliberate for a Frenchman. Mr. Frank Rushworth is a manly Noel, and he sings well. The company is an unusually large one and comprises many very handsome women and a chorus of splendid range and volume of voice. One of the striking features of the performance is the agile dancing of the McCoy Sisters. These young ladies present a wonderful series of graceful evolutions as well as a remarkable exhibition of suppleness of body and lamb. Franz Ebert of Lilliputian memory, has a small part, and is grotesquely amusing, as usual.

Dusquesne—"Marta of the Lowlands."

Fernanda Eliscu proved herself an emotional actress of great power in the Spanish peasant play, "Marta of the Lowlands," presented at the Duquesne theater last night before a large and demonstrative audience which did not always demonstrate its sense of humor at the right places. The Spanish dramatist, Angel Guimera, has shown considerable talent in his choice of order in putting the play together and much knowledge of human nature in delineating his types of peasant character. Messrs. Wallace Gilpatrick and Guido Marburg, the translators, deserve the thanks of the play-going public for enabling the English stage with such a masterpiece.

The play reminds one a great deal of "Tess of the d'Urbervilles." The story is similar to that of Hardy's novel and Stoddard's drama, save that in "Marta" poetic justice is done and the sin of ignorance finds forgiveness. Marta was the child of a beggar and had been practically bought by Sebastian, a wealthy land-owner. After having ruined her he wishes to marry another woman, and in order to get rid of Marta decides to marry her off to some one else, finding for this purpose a simple shepherd from the mountains who knows nothing of Marta's past. Marta, who is forced into the marriage, at first despises Manelich, thinking that he has married her knowing of her shame; then pities him when she learns that he has been deceived, and loves him when she learns how strong and noble and pure of heart he is. The climax is a great scene in which Manelich discovers that his master was the man who has wronged Marta, and tries to kill Sebastian, but is dragged and driven out by Sebastian's retainers. The third act, which dragged a little at the opening, Sebastian renews his persecutions of Marta, when Manelich returns, strangles him and carries Marta away to the mountains.

Dealing with elemental passions in an almost brutal way, the play takes a powerful hold of the audience—it is so natural, so free from theatrical claptrap, so vivid in its color. Fernanda Eliscu as the heroine showed herself as an emotional actress of consummate power. In her fits of senseless rage, unfolding the story of her wrongs to Tomas, in taunting her husband to provoke him to kill her, and in her defiance of Sebastian in the last act she carried her audience away. Hobart Bosworth as Manelich, Marta's shepherd husband, shared much of the honors with her, being natural in his gaiety restrained in his grief and mighty in his rage. Hardee Kirkland as Sebastian was somewhat of a conventional villain at times—but then nearly all villains are conventional. Alexander Vincent as Tomas and Monroe Salisbury as Merruch did splendid work. Of the women, besides Miss Eliscu, special praise is due to Emily Wakeman, who played a gossipy and spiteful peasant girl with just the proper spice of mischievous malice. Mercedes Bishop also did well in a similar part, while Ethel Browning as Rosa occasionally overdid the naive simplicity business. An exceptionally clever Spanish dance was rendered in the first act by Dolores Tavara and Harold Hendee. The drama is well mounted and the ensemble play is admirable.

Grand—"The Wrong Mr. Wright."

Laughter will be the rule at the Grand this week for those who like farcical nonsense. Certainly George Broadhurst never intended his "Wrong Mr. Wright" as anything but a farce of somewhat ridiculous pattern, but as such it is good for two hours of amusement. The stock company is putting it forward with considerable cleverness. Mr. Ingersoll plays the role created by Roland Reed and plays it broadly and effectively. His make-up is admirable. Miss Eva Taylor is hardly fitted for the role of a dashing female detective, but she wears a number of very handsome and stunning gowns, which makes up in large measure for any defect in getting down to the "dash" of the role, while her piquant song in the second act makes something of a hit. Charles Abbe is extremely clever as an impudent young "lording," while Marion Berg, as a lady's maid masquerading under the name of her mistress, does excellent work. Mr. Greenleaf is good; so is Miss Adair, while Robert Wayne, William McVey, Scott Sigging, Dennie Harris and Miss Louise Rial all lend excellent support. The stage setting, showing the reception room of the Hygeia hotel, Old Point, is rich and handsome.

Avenue—Refined Vaudeville.

At the Avenue theater a goodly number of entertaining vaudeville acts are offered for Thanksgiving week. The singing of Mr. R. J. Jose, the contra-tenor, is the only real artistic effort on the bill, and he was deservedly applauded. Mr. Jose is a singer of fine voice. The five juggling Johnsons have a spectacular club throwing act, and Snyder and Buckley's musical skit, "Blatz Wants a Drink," is a mirthful and melodious melange of a sort which usually delights a vaudeville audience. Avery and Hart are a clever pair of colored comedians, their best bid for popularity being a novel singing sketch, entitled "Babies of the Jungle," which is elegantly staged. Charles Mildare is a versatile whistler, whose stunt was warmly received and whose statement that he used no mechanical device was incredulously received by a considerable part of the audience. Mlle. Ballerini is a graceful and daring trapez balancer, and the three Keatons pleased with their funny knockabout act. "The New Coachman" sketch by Simon, Gardner & Co., kept the audience in a good humor, and Eddie Mack, the eccentric dancer, made his usual hit. Other good features on the program are Ballerini's trained dogs, and Burnham and McNeill in songs and dances.

Lewis A. Simon.

Empire—"Pickings from Puck."

It's a good place to laugh at the Empire this week. The visitor who reads the title of the entertainment, "Pickings from Puck," has a right to expect a good time and he is not disappointed. A more ludicrous collection of exaggerated hitoffs on every day happenings has not been seen in Pittsburgh for many a day. There is no lagging in the sport; from the time the curtain is rung up until the last notes of the "rube" song die away the fun is fast and furious. For the most of this extraordinary amusement Willard Simms is responsible. In his old role of Sam Flinders he affords a constant cause for laughter and applause. Along with Mr. Simms this year the management has provided a full chorus and a company which adds much to the value of the entertainment. Their rendering of a mimic opera, the scene from a Pullman car, a modern automobiling tour and glimpses at society left no room for complaint among the fun lovers in the house. A very pretty stage effect is "The Military," and the "rube" song made a decided hit as an oddity in stage music.

Bijou—"Eight Bells."

To say that "Eight Bells" appears this season with something new sounds like a paradox, but the Brothers Byrne at the Bijou theater yesterday greeted their old friends with some striking novelties in their time honored pantomime. There is little change in the acrobatic features, but in the specialties and stage environment the present production is one of the best that has ever been given. No doubt the patrons would welcome the Byrne brothers if they would give the public something entirely new and it would be refreshing to replace old acts good as they may be, with something up-to-date. The songs and dances by Harry Baker and Ella Shields are well received.

Academy—Imperial Burlesquers.

Harry Williams, Jr.'s, Imperial Burlesquers are at the Academy as the first of the holiday attractions and drew packed houses at both performances yesterday. There is hardly a familiar feature in this well known attraction so complete has been the makeover, from stars to soubrettes and from drop scenes to dressing. There are about seven comedians on the burlesque circuit who class by themselves and their name attached to a program is sure to fill the house. Frank Byron, the dude detective, is one of them and although he is in starry company he is pretty near the whole show. With pretty Louise Langdon he appears in a new sketch with olio which is a screamer. When John E. Cain carried a suit case on the audience thought he would spring his old stove pipe rat trap but he didn't and his sketch is new and funny. Cliff Gordon's new spiel is worth hearing and full of timely hits. Evans and St. John are a clever pair of dancers and singers and Patti Carney takes well with her coon songs. Ila Grannon scored a hit with her singing.

TWELFTH VICTIM OF MINE HORROR

Inspectors Say Operations Should Be Discontinued at Ferguson Shaft.

ONE BODY IS STILL MISSING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DUNBAR, PA., Nov. 23.—Another victim of the Ferguson mine disaster succumbed to his injuries today, making the twelfth death. William Foster, aged 40, father of Wheatley Foster, aged 21, who is also dead, expired today at the State Cottage hospital at Connellsville. John Foster, another son of William Foster and brother of Wheatley Foster is not expected to live. The bodies of the dead father and son lie side by side at the home of the family tonight and will be buried tomorrow.

The funeral of James McGurk, son of Pit Boss John McGurk, who was badly burned by the explosion, will also take place tomorrow. Seven of the foreigners who met death in the explosion, were buried today at the Polish cemetery at Leisenring.

The body of Michael Benni is still missing and is supposed to be in the mine.

State Mine Inspector James E. Roderick and his deputies held a conference today after visiting the scene of the disaster.

The four mine inspectors sent the following communication to the officials of the Dunbar Furnace Company:

Mr. John W. Greaves, Superintendent Ferguson Mines, Dunbar Furnace Company:

Dear Sir: After a careful investigation of your Ferguson mine, in which a disastrous explosion occurred about 9:30 p. m., Saturday, November 21, 1903, causing the death of 12 persons and the serious injury of several others, we are of the opinion that the same is too dangerous condition to exist and would render the future operation of this mine a menace to life. Therefore, we would recommend that the operations of this mine be discontinued indefinitely. This is our decided opinion after a thorough study of the facts and conditions in connection with your mine. (Signed)

B. CALLAGHAN, Ninth district;
E. ROSS, Second district;
I. G. ROBEY, Fifth district;
W. G. MULLISON, Eleventh district.

Coroner Hagans stated tonight that the investigation into the accident would begin tomorrow.

OPERA SEASON OPENED.

Brilliant Audience at First Night's Performance at the Metropolitan.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Heinrich Conried opened his grand opera season tonight with "Rigoletto." Mme. Sembrich, Enrico Caruso and Signor Scotti resuming the leading roles. The theater was crowded by one of the most fashionable audiences that has ever been seen in New York, society giving its stamp of approval to the new management of the opera season.

The stellar lights were in magnificent form, especially Caruso, whom Europe considers one of its greatest tenors. Sembrich has always been charming as Gilda, the jester's daughter, and Scotti reappeared as Rigoletto, a role well suited to him.

Looking Into Murderer's Sanity.

Attorney George M. Munroe, Dr. Nicholson of Allegheny and C. Shannon of Sewickley, the committee appointed to look into the sanity of George Meier, who was convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of his brother, met in the office of Warden Lewis in the jail yesterday and heard the testimony of a number of witnesses as to the queer actions of Meier. A number of questions were put to the man. The Commission probably will report to the court today.

WOOD COMMITTEE WILL GO TO CUBA

General's Record While Governor of the Island Will Be Inquired Into.

CAPT. BARDEN ON THE STAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The senate committee on military affairs will designate a sub-committee to go to Cuba to take testimony regarding the conduct of Gen. Wood. The personnel of the committee has not yet been agreed upon nor the number of members. It is asserted that so much has already been said about the conduct of Gen. Wood in Cuba that it will be necessary to examine witnesses in that island who cannot come to the United States.

The senate committee on military affairs held a brief session today to continue the investigation of charges against Gen. Leonard Wood, in opposition to his confirmation to be major general. Capt. W. J. Barden of the artillery corps, U. S. A., who was engineer officer in charge of street improvements at Havana during Gen. Wood's administration as governor general of Cuba, was the only witness heard. The committee adjourned to meet again Friday at 11 o'clock.

Capt. Barden's testimony had no important bearing on the charges against Gen. Wood. He was summoned at the request of Senator Foraker and is understood to be one of the officers Gen. Wood is said to have asked to have called to refute certain charges which Major Rathbone had indicated he would bring before the committee.

When the committee met today only six members were present. These were Senators Forakr, Quails, Scott, Cockrell, Pettus and Bate. Other members were detained by the Republican caucus for the appointment of committees. Favorable action was taken on the request of Major Rathbone for the issue of subpoenas for army officers and permission was given him to prepare a bill setting forth as to what he expected to prove by each. This list will be ready for summons to be issued tomorrow. Major Rundle will be the first witness when the committee meets on Friday. He is now en route from Havana to the United States.

It was determined this evening that in order to save time a sub-committee would meet tomorrow morning in order to continue the examination of Major Rathbone on his charges against Gen. Wood.

ROBBED OF MONEY AND WATCH AND THROWN INTO COAL SHAFT

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

CHARLEROI, PA., Nov. 23.—Tuck Larimer, formerly an employe of the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company, was found by two men from Monessen lying at the bottom of an air shaft in an abandoned part of the Rostraver mine, oppposite here, in Westmoreland county. The men, who had gone out for a walk, heard groans of the injured man, but were unable to find the source of the sound. Later they came to the top of the shaft and the man's voice could be plainly heard. The shaft is about 95 feet deep and it was a hard job to get him out.

Larimer says he was attacked by two negroes late Saturday night, and after robbing him of $10 and a gold watch, they threw him down the shaft. His life was saved by falling on a pile of soft earth. He did not recognize his assailants. The local police are on the lookout for the men.

DIED OF SMALLPOX IN COUNCIL CHAMBER

Absence of a Pest House Is Cause for Commotion at Punxsutawney.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., Nov. 23.—Antony Sabo, who was employed in the mines at Helvetia, near here, died of smallpox in the municipal building last night. Sabo came here last Wednesday and applied for admission to the Punxsutawney hospital, but when the nature of his disease became known, it is said he was told to leave. Sabo refused to go, saying that he had paid a physician and hospital tax for nine years and thought he was entitled to stay. He was finally ejected from the hospital, it is said, the authorities claiming that the law forbade them taking in patients who were suffering from a contagious disease.

Sabo wandered around town and finally went to Dr. J. E. Graber's office where he was given medical attention. His case was reported to the board of health, but there being no pesthouse the matter was turned over to the town council. Sabo was taken to the municipal building and placed in the city council's meeting room and an attendant put in charge. On Thursday, the citizens residing in that part of the town and the firemen and Citizens band, who have headquarters in the building, raised a protest. The councilmen were notified to remove Sabo or subject the members of that body to arrest as soon as the law could be invoked.

The death of the smallpox patient last night prevented a clash of the opposing forces.

ATTEMPT MADE TO SHOOT CONDUCTOR ON HIS TRAIN

The Life of John Love Is Placed in Jeopardy a Second Time.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEVERNON, PA., Nov. 23.—Another attempt was made this afternoon to shoot John Love, a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie conductor by a foreigner whom he had ejected from his train. A warning shout from a passenger alone saved the conductor's life. Less than two hours after the trouble occurred John Nickola, an Italian, was arrested here. At a hearing he was held for court and tomorrow will be taken to jail at Uniontown.

The second attempt on John Love's life occurred just six days after a bullet intended for him struck and fatally wounded William Kelsey, a telegraph operator. Nickola boarded train No. 34 down the road and presented a ticket for Monessen. When that place was reached he feigned to be asleep. Conductor Love aroused him and told him the train was at Monessen. Nickola said he wanted to go to Bellevernon. After the train started Nickola was asked for 10 cents, the additional fare. This he refused to pay. The train was stopped and he was hustled off.

A passenger, ex-Burgess John H. Worrell, of Bellevernon, had his head out of the window and saw the man draw a revolver and start toward the steps. Worrell called a warning to Conductor Love who stepped inside the door just as Nickola came within range. The train had already started and Nickola could not get on. When the train reached the officers were notified. As Worrell and Constable E. H. Nichols were walking down the street they passed a man whom Worrell recognized as the one who had drawn the revolver. He was promptly arrested.

WANDERED OVER COUNTRY EATING GRASS AND WEEDS

Well-to-Do Farmer Taken in Charge After Roaming About a Week.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MONONGAHELA, PA., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—This evening Robert C. Noble, a well-to-do farmer of Coal Center, after wandering over the country between his home and here, half starved, was found by J. F. Robertson near Hazel Kirke, three miles from here. Robertson discovered Noble walking over a hillside pulling up dried grass and weeds and eating them. He approached Noble, and although the latter glared at him and muttered incoherent threats, he was too weak to offer any resistance when Robertson took him in charge.

Robertson led him and then brought him to Monongahela, where Officer Leo Logan of the police force met them and took Noble in charge. Dr. C. B. Wood was called to examine Noble and stated that the man had probably not eaten for a week. Noble could not give any coherent account of himself, muttering about a farm near Coal Center and a coal deal.

Telephone inquiry to Coal Center revealed that Noble is a well-to-do farmer. He had lived with his sister. It is thought financial trouble unbalanced his mind. He will be examined by physicians tomorrow.

GREENSBURG, PA.—John Hubrick, Sr., of Pittsburgh, is the defendant to a peculiar suit in the common pleas court of this county. BUTLER, PA.—Four attempts have been made during the past few days to wreck incoming passenger trains in the West Penn railroad yards in this city. Each time trains arriving after dark have been open switches and serious wrecks were averted only by prompt application of the airbrakes. It is supposed to be the work of persons who hope to plunder the passengers and cars.

DECIDE NINETEEN SHALL BE QUORUM

Citizens Leaders Rule That Platt and Donahoe Are Not to Be Considered.

LEGAL OPINION REQUIRED

The Citizens party leaders have decided that 19 members shall constitute a quorum and a majority of select council. On this proposition the leaders, including J. Smiley Wightman, have come in conflict with City Clerk E. W. Hassler, who maintains that the two members elected by the courts shall be included in making up a quorum and a majority vote for the passage of bills. It is agreed, however, that if there is a quorum only a majority of the members present shall be necessary to elect a president.

The law provides that in the passage of a bill it must receive the votes of a majority of the "members elected." The Citizens party leaders claim that Messrs. Platt and Donahoe cannot be counted as "members elected," because the courts have held they were not legally elected. It is a technical law point, and the opinion of the city solicitor will be required to settle it.

It may not be necessary to obtain a legal opinion for the election of a president, as there seems to be no desire on the part of any faction to attempt to prevent a quorum, but in the passage of bills it would be necessary to have a ruling.

Director E. M. Bigelow yesterday indorsed the position taken by Mr. Wightman. He said that a quorum of select council at present would consist of 19 members. The presidency of select council is still "up in the air," although there seems to be no doubt that Mr. Wightman will receive the caucus nomination of the Citizens party. The uncertainty is due to the fact that several Citizens members may refuse to enter the caucus or abide by its decision.

George S. Fleming, Henry Poke, William E. Schemp and R. H. Douglas are Citizens members who are said to be doubtful, but there is one other Citizens member of select council who has declared that he will vote for John A. Murphy if Mr. Murphy is a candidate.

William E. Schemp of the Thirteenth ward said yesterday when asked if he would support Mr. Wightman for president of select council: "I do not know. The fact of the matter is, I have not decided what I will do or for whom I will vote."

The Citizens members are reticent on the question of abolishing the rump select council committees. Several were interviewed yesterday, but refused to say whether they would vote to abolish the committees.

They left for Louisville tonight. The Defender, which has been lying here for the past three months, gathered up a tow of 22 empties and two Coal Sales yesterday, but before she could get straightened around and headed up stream she blew out a cylinder head. DAVIS ISLAND DAM RAISED.

Incoming Packets Brought Thousands of Turkeys to Market.

It was found necessary yesterday to begin work on raising the Davis island dam if the water in the harbor is to be kept at a navigable stage. The rivers have been falling slowly, and more than half the dam is now up for navigation. The Ben Hur and Kanawha arrived yesterday and brought big trips of turkeys. The Keystone State is due this morning, and she will come here to unload her fowl to the market. The opening of navigation is declared to be a boon to many a Pittsburgher himself, if allowed a packet is being in thousands of turkeys which would otherwise have come in by a dearer route or not at all.

The James Moren and Ed Roberts arrived in the harbor last night with tows of empties from down-river points.

The Ben Hur left at noon yesterday after discharging her load of turkeys. The Kanawha leaves this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Keystone State, which arrives this morning, will not leave until tomorrow afternoon. The Queen City will make the trips on Monday.

The Edgar Cherry has been placed in the Morgantown trade in place of the new Columbia. Capt. R. B. Abrams believes the new boat too good to be knocked about in the trade in the winter time.

Capt. John F. Drave and wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in Beaver yesterday. Many rivermen attended the celebration and enjoyed the hospitality of Capt. Drave's "open house."

The John Mackey will be inspected today by the United States inspectors of steam vessels. The steamers which left with the coal fleet last week have arrived at Cincinnati. Some of the steamers will begin to return today and the rest will take the coal to down-river ports.

STILL FUSSING OVER OFFICIALS

W. J. and State Only Agree on One Man, but the Other Will Be Named Today.

WASHINGTON TEAM IN HIDING

The W. and J. football team has been spirited away to a quiet nook in Washington county to rest until Wednesday night, so that it will be in the best possible condition for the game with State at Exposition park on Thanksgiving day. This was the news that came from Washington, Pa., last night. It was brought here by Manager Tuit, who declined to give the destination of the team.

Tuit came to have a talk with W. A. Stuart about officials for the game. The matter was practically closed on Saturday, as State had accepted Poe and W. & J. had agreed to take Hess. A few hours later Texas played against W. & J. in a West Virginia uniform under the name of Morgan and was mainly responsible for the riot which followed. Now W. & J. would not allow him to carry water for the mascot. State realized this fact and was fair enough to withdraw the name of Texas. Stuart again urged the acceptance of E. P. Young, and Tuit wanted Bill Edwards, the famous Princeton coach. Stuart had no objection to Edwards, but said he believed it would be better not to have two Princeton men. It was finally agreed to postpone action until 1:30 this afternoon, when Tuit will return with the coaches of the W. & J. team, and the man who will work with Poe will be chosen.

It was agreed by Tuit and Stuart to prevent any charge of partisanship on the part of the officials, to have even for the minor offices of linesmen and timekeepers, when who are not in any way connected with either college. The conference was a most harmonious one.

W. A. Stuart, who returned from State college yesterday, selected 30 seats in the grandstand for the cadet band, which will lead the rooting for State. The petition sent by the alumni was effective, and the faculty consented to allow the student musicians to come here.

The State men are chuckling over the West Virginia affair. It seems that some one at Bellefonte knew that Virginia was pretty strong this year. State had a game scheduled for earlier in the season, subject to the securing of grounds in Pittsburgh. When there was a hitch about the park State gracefully passed up the game. She knew that Virginia was not the snap it was generally supposed to be.

W. & J. did not get this good information and made the mistake of starting Saturday's game with subs. To make matters worse, West Virginia undoubtedly loaded up for the occasion, and the result was that the W. & J. men lost their temper and made a bad break.

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh baseball club has brought it out on the third base side for the game. For baseball he prefers the first base side, but goes to the other end of the stand for football. Phillippe, Wagner and Ritchey, who are in town, have been invited to occupy the box.

EASY FOR MANCHESTER.

Freedom Five Beaten—Row in the Preliminary Game.

The basketball game at Manchester last night was the best one played there this season. The Freedom boys came to town with a bunch of 50 rooters loaded down with cow bells and tin horns, determined to take a fall out of the home boys, if such a thing were possible. But the way the first half ended made it look as if it were not only possible, but highly probable. The game started with a rush, the Freedom boys hanging close to their opponents and blocking all attempts at team work. For more than five minutes the play continued fast without a score for either side. The half ended 7 to 6 in Manchester's favor. In the second half Manchester run away from the visitors and won easily. The score:

Manchester—44.		Freedom—10.
Hay, Seibel	R. F.	West
Koch	L. F.	Kelley
Metzkes, Wallise	C.	Beaver
Graham	R. G.	Bane
Burry	L. G.	Goettman

Goals from field—Koch 10, Seibel 4, Burry 3, Hay, Wallise, Graham, West 2, Beaver. Goals from foul—Graham 4, Goettman 4. Officials—Little and Mohr. Scorer—H. Roth. Timer—Ed Lowrie.

The preliminary was forfeited to the Manchester Juniors before the first half had been finished. Two players got in a mixup, and the Crescent player struck at the home player. Upon this the offender was ordered to leave the game. The visitors refused to play without the player who had been ejected and left the floor, and the referee awarded the game to Manchester, 2 to 0. Following is the lineup:

Manchester Jrs.—0.		Crescents—2.
Tannehill	R. F.	McMahon
O'Neil	L. F.	Berges
King	C.	Remmel
Hassler	R. G.	Stern
Alton	L. G.	Ewer

Goals from field—O'Neil 2, Tannehill, King, Berges. Goal from foul—Tannehill. Referee—Graham. Scorer—F. Miller. Timer—Ed Lowrie.

The Brushton Tigers will play the McDonald Reserves at McDonald Thanksgiving day. The Tigers would like to hear from some good 90-pound team for Saturday, November 28, game to be played in Brushton. W. Gibson, 7611 Tioga street, city.

PIRATE ROSTER TO BE REDUCED

Dreyfuss Says That Not Over 20 Players Will Go South, Including Two New Ones.

CLAUDE RITCHEY IS HERE

That the Pittsburgh club intends letting out a few of the many players now on the club roster before time for spring practice rolls around is evident from the remarks made by President Dreyfuss yesterday afternoon. During a talk on players, the Pirates' owner said that he did not expect to take more than 20 players on the training trip to Hot Springs, and that number will include two new players whose names are not yet affixed to contracts, and whose identity is being kept secret for the very good reason that the deal for the players has not yet been completed.

Claude Ritchey, the Pirates' clever second baseman, was a caller at local headquarters yesterday afternoon, and his presence was a surprise to the club officials, who were glad to see "Little All Right," and he was given the glad hand. Ritchey lives up at Emlenton and rarely comes down to the city after the close of the playing season. Secretary Locke accounted for his presence at this time to the boom in oil stocks, but Ritchey denied the truth of the statement and said he had grown tired of the hum-drum life in Emlenton and came down to spend a few days in a large town. Ritchey was in pretty bad shape when the season closed, but he is all right again and says that he would be glad if the playing season was to open next week.

The action of Rube Waddell in quitting the "Stain of Guilt" company and going to tending bar for an old-time ball player in Wheeling was up for discussion at baseball headquarters yesterday, and President Dreyfuss sprung a new story on the erratic twirler. It happened while Rube and the "Stain of Guilt" company were filling an engagement in Chicago a few weeks ago. When the show struck the town Rube made a round of the newspaper offices and invited the sporting editor of each paper to be at the opening performance and watch him do all sorts of things to the villain. He promised to make the act a realistic one, and the sporting editors, knowing that the Butler county boy generally keeps his word in matters of that kind, were on hand to see the fun.

When the villain was about to show where Rube and the villain do business the tall pitcher went at his man in earnest, and after dragging him all over the stage wound up with a punch that little Tim has unfortunately clear off the stage and landed him among the musicians in the orchestra. After this little pastime Rube walked over to the boxes where his friends were seated, and, striking an attitude, remarked, "Did you see me do him?" The villain handed in his resignation as soon as the show was over, but Rube squared matters by taking the fellow out that evening and making things pleasant for him. As a rule Rube resigns from the show regularly once a week, but he likes the acting business, and the manager has no trouble coaxing him into line again, so that when the "Stain of Guilt" strikes town in a couple of weeks it is more than likely that George Edward will be on deck doing things to the villain as per usual.

Hans Wagner is going to give a party down at Carnegie today, but just what kind of a party it is to be is a mystery, as the invited guests are pledged to secrecy. President Dreyfuss has an invite, but nothing could induce him to tell whether it is to go hunting, to shoot at blue rocks or to indulge in Hans' favorite pastime of penuchle. The guests of honor will be President Dreyfuss, Deacon Phillippe and Jim Orris.

MINIATURE FOOTBALLS PROMISED SCHOOL TEAM

W. U. P. to Organize Hockey Seven, Electing Ward Manager—Other Gossip.

The Pittsburgh All-school team which meets the West Side High school of Cleveland at Friendship park Thanksgiving afternoon had its first signal practice yesterday afternoon at the park. All the players but Frye of East Liberty were out, and they became acquainted with the signals prepared by Capt. Kerr Price. Scrimmage work will be begun this afternoon, and before Thursday the bunch will have team work. Seanor, the giant Kiski tackle, will come down Wednesday to line up before the game. Fred Cooper has arranged a treat for the players by giving each man on the team a miniature gold football.

Hockey will likely be again taken up by W. U. P. The students who are devotees of the sport have taken steps toward organizing a seven by the election of Edward Ward as manager. An application has been made for entrance into the Interscholastic league. The School league has announced its schedule and will not add another club.

The Shadyside academy football team will be banquisted next week by the trustees of the school. It will likely be held at the Hotel Schenley or Union club. The Pittsburgh High school eleven will also be banqueted. Both will take place after the inter-city contest Thanksgiving between the All-Pittsburghs and the West High school of Cleveland.

The junior basketball team, by beating the sophomores at Cornell last week 19 to 11, won the interclass championship.

The new Princeton gymnasium will be opened this week.

The U. of P. freshmen five will play at Lawrenceville January 30, High school February 13 and at Mercersburg March 12.

There are four unbeaten teams in the west that have a claim to the western championship—Michigan, Minnesota, Chicago and Northwestern. The Thanksgiving games between Michigan and Chicago and between Minnesota and Wisconsin may put two of them out of the running.

WILL TRY HIM OUT.

Mugsy McGraw Thinks Well of an Amateur Catcher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Henry Beckendorf will probably be a catcher for the Giants next year. Manager McGraw seems to favor the young man, and is likely to ask him to play.

Beckendorf was the crack catcher of the Hudson River league last season, and is an excellent batter and a strong thrower. When the Giants go south for practice he will be taken with them and will be given a thorough trying out.

FIGHT EXPERTS PICKING FITZ

The Cornishman Is Looked for to Polish Off Gardner Within Ten Rounds.

OPINIONS OF THE LEADERS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Should George Gardner defeat Bob Fitzsimmons when they battle for the light heavyweight championship on Wednesday night, local sporting men will receive a harder bump that they have experienced in years. Nearly all of the prominent local sporting celebrities and boxers look for Fitzsimmons to win, while those who expect Gardner to carry off the honors are few and far between. Those who have followed the game closely believe that Fitzsimmons will surprise Gardner by his cleverness, and show that his age and many battles have not affected him in the least. Fitzsimmons must show to the front, however, in the early rounds of the contest. His friends look for him to win within five rounds, while he is strong and fast. In a long drawn-out battle there are many who believe Gardner might wear the Cornishman down and win on points, if not with a knockout.

Fitzsimmons has scored most of his victories in a few rounds, one of his hardest and quickest battles being with Tom Sharkey, at Coney Island, when he defeated the sailor in two rounds.

Following are the opinions of some of the local sporting men of prominence:

George Considine: "Fitz will surely win by a knockout. He has a wonderful punch that is apt to do the trick at any time."

John Considine: "If the bout ends before the tenth round, Fitz will be the winner. On a long route, Gardner might have a chance."

Terry McGovern: "It will be a great fight, and if Fitz is good he should win."

Sam Harris: "I don't think they will go the limit. Fitz seems to have a shade the best of it."

Leo Mayer: "Gardner will have to be a wonder to defeat Fitz."

James J. Jeffries: "I will be very much surprised if Fitz does not win. Gardner may be a great fighter, but he is going against pretty tough game when he tackles Fitz."

CORBETT BACKS GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, tonight backed George Gardner to win the coming fight with "Bob" Fitzsimmons at San Francisco.

The former champion placed $500 to $1,000 on Gardner's chances with a friend at the Hoffman House. Corbett announced that he had wired his cousin, Harry Corbett, to place a similar sum at the same odds at the ringside in San Francisco.

"My opinion is that Gardner will have a walkover," Corbett's friends quote him as saying. "He will put Fitz down and out before many persons, who think they have the coming fight figured out exactly, can realize what has happened."

CARBUNCLE DISPLAYS GREAT BURST OF SPEED

After Conceding Weight to a Big Field He Jumped Out and Won the Race.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Carbuncle's performance in the last race was the feature at Bennings today. He conceded weight to a good field and won, going away at the end and covering the mile in 1:41, which is better than the best time for the distance over the new course last week. Trapezist was the only winning favorite. Track fast. Summary:

First race, 3-year-olds and upward, mile and 70 yards—Nine Spot, 103, Redfern, 4 to 1 and 8 to 5, won; Star and Garter, 95, H. Callahan, 50 to 1 and 12 to 1, second; Mirall Love, 90, Brunner, 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:50 3-5.

Second race, 2-year-olds, 5½ furlongs—Gold Dome, 112, Fuller, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1, won; Gonaogue, 104, Redfern, 4 to 1 and 8 to 5, second; Niskayuna, 106, Hoar, 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:09 4-5.

Third race, hurdle, 3-year-olds and upward, 1½ miles—Trapezist, 132, Jackson, 9 to 10 and out, won; Draughtsman, Mary, 151 and 7 to 2, second; Meteorite, 143, Dayton, 50 to 1, third. Time, 2:32.

Fourth race, 2-year-olds, 6 furlongs—Alforten, 111, E. Michaels, 5 to 1 and 2 to 1, won; Coppelia, 104, Redfern, 20 to 1 and 7 to 1, second; Peter Paul, 116, Bullman, 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:15 1-5.

Fifth race, 3-year-olds and upward, 1 1-16 miles—Dramatist, 97, Clandi, 4 to 1 and 8 to 5, won; Fortunatus, 103, Redfern, 13 to 5 and 6 to 5, second; Cloverland, 106, Pletcher, 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:53.

Sixth race, handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, 1 mile—Carbuncle, 126, Redfern, 7 to 1 and 3 to 1, won; Unmasked, 122, Fuller, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1, second; Aorii Shower, 106, H. Callahan, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:41.

BASKETBALL NOTES.

The players of the Friendship basketball five are requested to meet at Manager Irwin's home Wednesday evening at 7:30 sharp.

Fayette Athletic association, of Allegheny would like to hear from teams desiring practice games for any evening throughout the week. Address C. C. Bittner, P. O. box 1757, city.

The Keystone A. C. claims the 98-pound championship and any team disputing the claim can have a game for Thanksgiving morning. Address Robert Martin, No. 509 Federal street, Allegheny.

The Standard Juniors open their season Friday night at Watson Memorial hall with the strong team of that place. Any 15 to 16-year-old teams desiring games address William Mayer, 1013 East street, Allegheny.

The manager of the McKeesport A. C. is requested to call 1847 Grant and ask for Norris.

The Crescent A. C. would like to hear from all 15 or 14-year-old teams having halls for all Saturdays. Address John Curry, No. 2223 Harkums alley, South Side.

The Newman club five has organized for the coming season and would like to hear from all teams. Allegheny Lyceum, East End Lyceum, Mt. Oliver Juniors and all other teams in this class. Address manager Newman club, Lang avenue and Kelly street, East End.

The Friendship basketball five would like to arrange games with the following teams: Allegheny Reserves, Company F team, Emsworth, Mt. Oliver, Wilmerding and all other good teams having halls. Address Walter Irwin, No. 12 Alpine avenue, Allegheny. Telephone 1686 Court.

The strong W. R. Blacks basketball team has been practicing hard and are well prepared to meet Apollo High school Thanksgiving night. Manager Hemming wishes to state that the Black team is not to be connected with the trouble caused at Homestead last Tuesday night by the Casino basketball team. The latter team had put on passed the old uniforms of the Blacks and the Homestead people were under the impression that it was the W. R. Blacks.

The South Side team will go to Indiana Thanksgiving morning to play the Indiana team in the afternoon. The playing of the Indiana team Saturday night was a big disappointment to the South Siders, who expected to meet the team they played last year, but as Manager Lichtenberger stated Saturday that the South Side boys might meet with a surprise up at Indiana, they are prepared for a harder game. Quite a few rooters, including a number of ladies, will accompany the team, which will be back in Pittsburgh at 7 o'clock Thanksgiving evening.

The real struggle for supremacy on the basketball floor will begin next Saturday night at Odd Fellows hall, South Side, when D. C. and A. C. and South Side play the opening championship game of the Allegheny County league. Both are hot after the championship and the result of this opening game will have a great bearing on the final result of the race. Last year's crack D. C. and A. C. team, with the addition of Campbell from Butler and Dickson from Homestead, promises to cut quite a figure in the chase for the championship.

AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

As the time draws near the interest in the Lyceum-Pastime game increases. This game will decide beyond all dispute the amateur championship. The Pastime team has met and defeated every amateur team of note in this section, and the fact that they have not been scored against this year puts them in a class by themselves. Their strong point is their team work and fast play, and they will depend on this to win from Lyceum. The Lyceum players, on the other hand, think they are just as fast as Pastime, and they have the advantage of weight. Lyceum started the season with the advantage of a coach. Mr. Bird, the former D. C. and A. C. player, has had the boys in charge and the team he has developed is a credit to him. He cannot see how Pastime can win. Although they are wonderfully fast, their line is not nearly so strong as Lyceum's.

Lyceum's strong point is in the offense of her backs. Brassel is a reliable man at fullback, Jo Hilar is the best one and Reed is fast on his feet. McInalry is a fast right halfback and is very effective. Quainlan and Clarke are two heavy (set halves, whose running is first class. Mooney and Campbell are both fast men for quarterback. So it is seen that Lyceum has a formidable aggregation and a team with no weak points and strong in all departments. Mr. Aimes of Princeton has been selected as one of the officials and Mr. Maloney of Fordham will probably be the other.

ILLNESS CAUSES DELAY IN POWELL MURDER CASE

Effort Made to Quash Indictment Against Frank Schultz. Criminal Court Cases.

The murder case in which Alfred Powell, colored, is charged with killing his brother, Basil, was postponed yesterday after six jurors were selected, owing to the sickness of Dr. W. C. McCandless.

A motion to quash the indictment was made in the case of Frank Schultz, charged with violating the printing laws by employing boys under 16 years. It is contended the law is unconstitutional because the amendment of May 13, 1903, seeks to change two separate acts of assembly.

Mikolay Marofsky pleaded guilty to unlawful wounding in striking Anthony Nedzinski on the head with a sledge hammer while he was sleeping in a chair. Frank Wilson and George W. Smith were found guilty of stealing cloth and sent one year each to the workhouse. Mike Lorenzo was found guilty of perjury against Viola Hood, who alleged he swore falsely against her before an alderman. Richard White was found guilty of barratry on a charge made by George Harris. It was alleged that White was a source of trouble to everyone around him by getting persons to bring unjust suits against others. George Slappery and Joseph Wilson were tried for highway robbery. John Rencastle alleges the men held him up at Fort Pitt bridge and robbed him of a watch, money and other articles.

Juvenile court will be held Monday instead of Friday next.

Liquor License Transfers.

The following transfers of liquor licenses were granted by Judge John M. Kennedy yesterday: Louis Pechtold, 11 Butler street, Etna, to Julius Koch; Margaret Walsh, 720 Carson street, Pittsburgh, to Martin McCormick; George G. Kniss, Duquesne borough, to Harry St. Gomey; Alois Eckert, 607 Ann street, Homestead, to John P. Blattner; Charles Sweeney, from northeast corner of Pond and Center streets to northeast corner of Garfield and Center avenues; Paul Kuhnert, from southeast corner of Chestnut street to Center alley, Natrona, to premises adjoining; Frank W. Entz 2131 Forbes street, Pittsburgh, to Peter Leinauer; Alexander Jarosz, 651 and 653 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, to A. Von Chrzenowski.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Andrew S. Miller issued an execution against Alexander J. Barton for $1,530.80.

Involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy were commenced against the A. E. Stviter Company, wholesale jewelers of this city. Claims amount to $5,135 23.

The jury returned a verdict for the defendant in the suit of Margaret H. Provost et al. against Charles W. Provost, an action in ejectment over property.

The Wilkinsburg board of health in the equity suit of George Bayer et al., denies the proposed municipal hospital in Wilkins township is near dwellings or will dessimate smallpox.

Decrees in divorce have been made in the following cases: Florence Granger against Jean Granger, indignities; Daisy Gearing against James H. Gearing, Benjamin F. Hardy against Arminta Hardy, Arthur J. Estep against Annie Estep, Rosanne M. Black against Alexander D. Black, all on the grounds of desertion.

China Closet of Exclusive Style

It requires a great deal of care and thought to secure exclusive styles of furniture. But it pays if you wish your home to have some individuality of its own.

The china closet shown in the above cut is one of the exclusive patterns. The design is unique and exceedingly pretty. It is artistically carved, has a mirror back, bent plate glass front and sides and claw feet. The illustration does not do justice to this handsome piece of furniture.

The beauty of fine china is greatly enhanced by a closet of this kind. It is very commodious, being 48 inches wide, 20 inches deep and 70 inches high.

Of course you will find many other designs of china closets here. This is the largest furniture house in the world.

The varieties are always large and the prices always attractive at

FIFTH WARD—1902.

City, School and

SOCIETY

THROUGH another international marriage Pittsburgh has lost one of her most talented daughters. A short and persistent courtship was followed by the wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Anne McGrew Tindle and Percival Lampard, a young English civil engineer in the employ of the British government at its vice-regal residence in Simla, India. The acquaintanceship commenced ten years ago, when Mr. Lampard came from London to the world's fair in Chicago and accepted a position with the Westinghouse Company, remaining in Pittsburgh six months, and then going to Simla, where he remained until the last few months. For the last few months Mr. Lampard and his mother have been touring this country, reaching Philadelphia only two weeks ago, where after a few days' courtship the engagement was announced, followed by the wedding yesterday. Tomorrow the bride and bridegroom start for London. They will sail on the Teutonic, accompanied by Mr. Lampard's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Lampard.

The wedding yesterday was a quiet home affair at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nettie Tindle, in Glenfield.

The hour was 5:30 o'clock, the Rev. G. S. Blayney of the Glenfield Presbyterian church officiating. The guests numbered 15, including only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride, Mr. Lampard's relatives with the exception of his mother, who is now in Philadelphia awaiting her son and his wife, being in England.

There were no attendants. The guests included Miss Alice Tindle, who with the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Tindle, the Rev. Mr. Blayney, William Criswell, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, was seated at the bride's table at the wedding supper; Miss Josephine Means, who played the wedding march, her sister, Miss Elmira Means, and Mowery Means, cousins of the bride, Miss Marion Gaston, Miss Eleanor Fuller and Miss Alice Fuller, also cousins; Mrs. Lucy Scandrett and C. C. Phillips comprised the wedding party.

The bride wore her traveling gown, a neat tailor-made suit of English suiting, with a shirt waist of white silk. The decorations were simple. A large vase of white roses was used as the centerpiece on the bride's table, this being the only decoration in the room. The ceremony took place in the little blue and white music room on the second floor. Roses were placed on the white mantel and on the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Lampard left during the evening for New York, whence they will sail tomorrow on the Teutonic for London. Early in January they will leave England, going by way of Paris to their future home in India.

The bride is one of the best known singers in Pittsburgh. She is a member of the Madrigal club and the Tuesday Musical club. Her voice is a rich full contralto and she has been very popular in musical circles in the two cities. She was in Philadelphia, where she has been studying with Miss M. C. Groff, when she met Mr. Lampard two weeks ago and had been making her temporary home with Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Cunningham, Mrs. Cunningham being formerly well-known in Pittsburgh when as Mrs. Love she was accompanist for James Stephen Martin and his pupils. Mrs. Lampard is a cousin of Mrs. Edward Manns Small and Miss Alice Tindle, and a niece of Dr. Tindle, one of the best known physicians in Western Pennsylvania before his death a few years ago.

Will Wed Today.

The rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Camilla Marie Frauenheim and Eugene S. Reilly took place last evening. The wedding will be an event of this morning in St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church at 9:30 o'clock. Miss Frauenheim will have as her attendants her sister, Miss May Florence Frauenheim, as maid of honor, and Miss Josephine Reilly, Miss Katherine Vilsack and Miss Anna Feyl bridesmaids. Brennan Reilly will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be Frank McKenna, Frank Lanahan, M. B. Kelley, David Page, Thomas F. Coyle, John B. Reilly and T. Frauenheim. The bride will be given away by her brother, Joseph Frauenheim, and the officiants will be the Rev. Fathers Joseph Hare and O'Connell.

A wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Catherine Frauenheim, in Stanton avenue, will follow the ceremony. At the breakfast Miss Frauenheim will present her maids with small gifts, and Mr. Reilly will give souvenirs to his ushers and best man. The bridal gown is of white silk trimmed with duchesse lace. The veil will be fastened with orange blossoms and a prayerbook with a marker of orchids will be carried. The maid of honor will wear green crepe de chine with a chiffon mull and hat to match. The three bridesmaids will be gowned in white crepe with hats and muffs of white chiffon. A reception for a large number of guests will be held this evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

After their wedding trip in the east Mr. Reilly and his bride will make their home in Baum street, where at home days will be held for the first time in February by Miss Frauenheim and Miss Reilly. Mr. Reilly is a graduate of St. Xavier's academy, in Latrobe. Her fiance is a Fordham college man and is a son of J. S. Reilly of Fifth avenue and Darragh street.

A tea party for the benefit of St. Lawrence's Roman Catholic church will be held this evening at Kenwood lawn. J. W. Byrnes is general manager of the affair and his assistants are J. K. Sixty Years of Wedded Life.

Capt. and Mrs. John F. Dravo yesterday celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage at their beautiful home overlooking the Ohio river at Beaver, where they have made their home for 40 years. No invitations had been sent out, but every friend and relative had been invited through the press.

There were none of the appointments of a reception, no decorations, and but light refreshments. The reception began at 7 o'clock and ended at 10. More than 500 persons attended. Mrs. Dravo is an invalid, the result of a fall three years ago, and had to sit while she received. The captain, who is vigorous, stood at the door ready to give a hearty handshake to everyone, and he called them all by name.

"This is the happiest day of my life, and it is a happiness that comes to few," he said. The couple were assisted in receiving by their children and grandchildren—Mrs. J. H. McCreery and the Misses Mame and Caryl McCreery, Thomas McCreery, the baseball player, and John McCreery, auditor of the Carnegie Steel company; Mrs. M. D. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dravo, Miss Eliza Dravo and Miss Lyda Dravo. Others attending were Capt. Dravo's brothers, William of Sewickley and James and Clark of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Dravo's brother, Samuel P. Clark of McKeesport. A delegation of old-time friends and neighbors from Dravosburg attended, and the men of the Congregational church of Rochester attended in a body. There were many telegrams and letters of congratulation from prominent Pittsburghers, and nearly 100 Pittsburgh friends came on the evening train.

Few men in Western Pennsylvania are better known than Capt. Dravo. He is known to nearly every riverman on the Ohio, Monongahela, Allegheny and Mississippi rivers. In railroad and coal circles he is a prominent figure. He is an ex-member of the state legislature, was surveyor and collector of the port of Pittsburgh for years, was prominently connected with the coal and coke industry, and at various times was president of the coal exchange, of which he is secretary. Capt. Dravo has been a director in the Tradesmans National bank and the Peoples Insurance Company; was one of the organizers of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, was trustee of Allegheny college at Meadville, was president of Beaver college and musical institute, for four years president of the State Reform school and for eight years director of the Allegheny County home. The work he has done toward river improvements lately culminated in the river interests conferring upon him the title, "Dean of the Waterways." Capt. Dravo was born in West Newton in 1818, and has lived in Western Pennsylvania all his life, 84 years.

A Night in Bachelordom.

H. W. Bretenstein and W. F. Benkiser entertained about 200 of their friends at their bachelor apartments, in Meyran avenue, last night. Unique invitations were issued some time ago for a "Night in Bachelordom," and the guests included both men and women. The affair was quite unique in itself. A scrap orchestra was stationed on the first floor, where a dance was held, a Swiss quartet amusing the guests on the second floor, while the apartments on the third were filled up as Italian gardens, with Italian maids distributing flowers. A buffet supper was served in the gardens, which were elaborately decorated with southern smilax, through which gleamed numerous lights from colored Italian lanterns. Chrysanthemums also entered into the decorative scheme, large bunches of the blossoms being placed on the walls of the improvised gardens.

Minstrels at Sewickley.

This evening a great many Sewickley people are expected to attend the black-face minstrel show given for the benefit of the free public library fund, in the Sewickley auditorium by a company of young men organized under the leadership of the Nevin Mandolins. With good orchestra, bright music, and good soloists and chorus, there is little doubt that the entertainment will be an enjoyable one. In the minstrel circle, solos will be sung by Alex Roe, Alex Hays, George K. Reed, Harry Tack, W. C. Nevin and Harry Fair. The first four are the "end men," and W. C. Nevin is the interlocutor. The olio and second part introduces a musical specialty act and a sketch entitled "A Few Minutes in a Studio," done by city talent, there will also be a turn at the mandolins, a few attractive dances, and a brilliant finale.

Will Entertain Schoolmates.

Miss Eleanor Dorrington Mustin will have as her house guests this week Miss Eleanor Paden of Washington, Pa., and Miss Bessie L. Reppetto of Wheeling, both schoolmates of Miss Mustin at the Washington seminary. Miss Paden was Miss Mustin's roommate when they graduated from the seminary last spring, and Miss Reppetto is a member of the class of 1904. The guests are expected tomorrow. As their stay will be very short, there will be no entertaining of a formal character for them. They with their hostess will be in attendance at the W. & J.-State football game on Thanksgiving. They returned from their wedding trip a few days ago and have been staying with Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. Alexander Murdock in Forbes street. Mayer, formerly of the Fifth Street synagogue. Mr. Strauss is a well-known business man of Latrobe.

Miss Ritchey Will Entertain.

PITTSBURGHER RUNS INTO SALVATION SNAG

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The Salvation Army mission, in the heart of the tough district, was the scene of a struggle last night that indicated the ability of the army officers to look after themselves physically as well as morally. James F. Ryan, a brawny Pittsburgh iron worker, entered the mission. The clerk would not give him lodging. It is declared that Ryan then attacked the clerk, who was much his inferior in size. Lieut. Herman Kroko came to the young man's assistance, floored the big fellow with a blow, and kept him quiet until a policeman arrived. During the melee the Salvation Army man's face was badly cut.

A Country Girl.

The Augustin Daly Musical Company will be at the Alvin theater all next week and will present "A Country Girl" for the first time in Pittsburgh. This great musical production has been accounted one of the greatest successes in the musical comedy line for several years. It has been running for over two years at Daly's theater, London, and ran 150 nights at Daly's theater New York; 100 nights in Boston, and the same in Philadelphia. The book and music are by the authors of "San Toy" and "The Geisha" and the complications and merry conceits of these two successful comedies are said to be more than duplicated in this their latest effort.

Women's Clubs

Carlyle, the Sage of Chelsea.

The Colloquium club held a very pleasant meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William F. Abel in Murtland avenue, Homewood. The presence of two visitors, added to the interest, one of them being Mrs. Robert W. Jones, formerly Miss Lydia Murdock, who though still a member of the club will hereafter make Minneapolis her home, and Miss Holden of Toronto, who is visiting Mrs. Harris Basham.

The program dealt with "Carlyle, the Sage of Chelsea." "His Attitude Toward Life and His Own Age" was the subject of a paper read by Mrs. Grace W. Ashley. Mrs. Mrs. Grace Watson discussed the "Influence of German Philosophy on Carlyle" and extracts from the letters of Jane Welch Carlyle were read by Mrs. R. G. Armstrong. An interesting feature of the program was an address by the Rev. A. J. Bonsall in which a critical estimate of Carlyle's worth was presented with readings from several of his best known works. Mrs. William Jones sang a number of songs, accompanied at the piano by Miss Riddle. Miss Dorothy Hahn, a new member of the faculty at the Pensylvania College for Women, was elected to membership in the club.

After the program refreshments were served, the ices appearing in pretty forms, in red and white, while flowers which were in the parlors and the dining-room were of the same colors. In the absence of the president, Mrs. John Fremont Snafer, Mrs. Samuel Seymour, the vice president, presided.

COL. J. B. FINLEY WAS MAN WHO MADE GIFT

Secret Out of Who Presented $240 to Presbyterian Union. Election of Officers.

The secret of a $240 donation to the Presbyterian Union of Pittsburgh and Allegheny was revealed at the annual meeting of that organization at the Hotel Schenley last evening. The giver intended that no one should know anything about who made the gift. It was reported by the treasurer simply "donation, $240." But it developed that the present came from Col. J. B. Finley, the retiring president. Prof. James E. Morrow of Allegheny made a motion that the man who gave the money be formally thanked. The motion was put to a vote immediately by W. C. Lilley, the secretary, as is customary when the putting of a motion might be embarrassing to chairmen. All eyes turned to Col. Finley. Applause followed and all facts were known.

Officers were elected last evening for the coming year as follows: President, Wilson A. Shaw, Pittsburgh; vice president, the Rev. J. M. Duff, Carnegie; executive committee, the Rev. C. P. Cheeseman, W. O. Sproul, J. H. Dunlavy and Jay I. Kay.

The Rev. Charles A. Beatty, the Rev. Frank M. Sneed, J. B. Ayrer, W. M. McJunkin and James Balph were elected to membership early in the meeting, and before adjournment a list of 100 new members was read and voted on. This makes the membership 280. Among those voted in were Dr. J. D. Moffat, president of Washington and Jefferson college; the Rev. J. H. Snowden, editor of the Presbyterian Banner, and Prof. David Schaff of the Western Theological seminary.

According to the report of the treasurer, D. McK. Lloyd, $1,002 was received last year and $888 was expended, leaving a balance of $14. A meeting will be held soon to make arrangements for the annual banquet.

TELLS OF MORGAN'S ESCAPE FROM OHIO PENITENTIARY

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23.—R. C. Morgan, a brother of Gen. John Morgan, the famous Confederate raider, called upon Gov. Nash today and later he visited the Ohio penitentiary, where in 1863 he was confined as a prisoner of war. During his visit to the prison he set at rest reports that the party who escaped on the night of November 27, 1863, had bribed their way out. He went to the cell block and explained how the escape was made. Mr. Morgan exchanged cells with his brother and was not with the escaping party. He, however, furnished them the information which enabled them that night to get over the walls.

The ammonia does not escape.

It is not set free till water is added. Then the fumes of ammonia are powerful.

All good housekeepers know the value of ammonia for cleaning. Many of them have been buying "household ammonia" by the bottle.

In Miller's Powerine with Ammonia they have both soap and ammonia.

No need of adding ammonia to the dish-water or the house-cleaning water. Just shake in a little Powerine.

WHAT THE OLD DOCTOR SAID.

"Doctor," said I, "you say appendicitis is much more common than it was thirty years ago."

"Indeed it is," replied the old doctor. "That we encountered this disease then, is true, but not with such appalling frequency. Appendicitis, these days, is almost as common as sore throat."

"To what, doctor, do you attribute this increase of appendicitis?"

"To nasty eating and to the use of foods which have a tendency to clog and fret the intestines and deaden peristaltic action. The way to avoid appendicitis and the surgeon's knife is to shun unnatural foods that beget intestinal torpor and constipation."

People who eat Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit do not have constipation and hence need not fear appendicitis. This perfectly natural food preserves the tone of the digestive tract and induces every excretory gland to subserve the body's interests. Have you tried this most delicious of all cereal foods?

"I have been eating your Shredded Wheat for over a year and it has completely cured me of constipation, with which I had been troubled for twenty years." — Joseph Jessop, Belden Hall, Coronado Beach, Cal.

RESIDENCE SALES LEAD THE MARKET

Sudden Spurt in Good House Sales in East End Wards.

100 HOMES FOR MONESSEN

The popularity of the Nineteenth ward as a high-class residence center was once more evidenced yesterday by two sales amounting to $60,000 and $27,000 respectively. The larger purchase was made by John I. Shaw, who secured from Architect Edward M. Butz four houses in the north side of Stanton avenue between Heath street and North Negley avenue. The residences are center hall brick houses of 12 rooms each, finished in hard wood and stand on lots 50x153 feet each. They were completed only recently and have never been occupied.

The smaller deal was the purchase by Delmont J. Kennedy of Nos. 7167-65 Chislett street. The properties consist of three reception hall brick houses of ten rooms each, and the site measures 102x111 feet in the northwest side of the street near Stanton avenue. Clarence H. Powel was the former owner of the houses, which were bought for an investment.

Four Good Residence Sales.

Another large residence deal closed yesterday was the sale by Conrad T. Beckman to Thomas A. and Edward Mellon of four center hall brick houses with a frontage of 251x306 feet in the east side of Wightman street, near Northumberland avenue, Twenty-second ward. They were built last year and were sold for $58,000.

Wilbur E. Mathews proves to have been the buyer of the Edmund H. Martin house at the northeast corner of Shady Side and Howe street, for sale, which for $20,000 was reported a few days ago. The residence is a modern reception hall dwelling on lot 81x125 feet and was bought for a home.

Samuel A. Dickie has sold to Francis D. Marlin a two-story dwelling house on the north side of Kentucky avenue, near Emerson street, Twentieth ward, for $23,000. The lot is improved with a new 12-room center hall brick house which was bought for a home.

Two parcels of Fourteenth ward frontage have been sold by Samuel Adams to Stewart Glover for $11,800. One plot measures 22x100 feet on the east side of Negley avenue, and the other is a lot 38x100 feet on the east side of Oakland avenue. Both are improved with frame houses.

100 Houses for Steel Workers.

Plans are being prepared by Burns & Martin for 100 houses which they will build on their new allotment at Monessen early in the spring for the labor conditions are satisfactory. The property is known as McMahon's addition No. 3 and lies just above Monessen. Of the 700 lots in the plan, which was laid out last summer, the firm already has sold over 200. The number of houses to be erected is immediately of mill employes at Monessen insure a quicker sale for lots if they are improved with five and six-room houses with baths such as the firm will build. The houses will cost from $1,200 to $2,500 each and will be both brick veneered and frame dwellings standing on lots 30x100 feet each. They will be built on property adjoining the plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, where 2,000 men are employed and only three squares from the Monessen street car line. Plans are about completed, it is said, for a monster blast furnace which the Pittsburgh Company will build in connection with doubling its present plant and which will employ many men. In addition to these plants the plants of the Steel Hoop Company and the Page Woven wire works employ several hundred men, creating a strong demand for houses near the works.

Building and Loan Business Crippled.

The tight money market and the lull in real estate have affected the building and loan business most unfavorably, according to city agents. The chief difficulty is in getting in funds to loan on such building propositions. Leaders are more than usually careful about their security and unless they can see a gilt-edged proposition ahead are slow to advance funds. On this account the number of large building projects engineered by these companies has been greatly curtailed of late. Inquiry for funds has increased, showing that the building of large apartment houses especially would increase if conditions were favorable, but after the preliminary sketches were drawn it has been found impossible to finance the deals. The local building and loan associations which cater to small building projects are doing a good business, although funds have been coming in rather more slowly recently. One encouraging feature is that the borrowers or builders are keeping up their payments, showing that they are paying for their new homes without serious inconvenience.

Samuel W. Black & Co. yesterday sold for the Hon. Morrison Foster his residence property at Edgeworth station, lot 150x418 feet, fronting on Ohio avenue and running through to the Beaver road, with the large stone dwelling thereon, for $12,000 cash. This house is a remnant of what was originally the Edgeworth seminary for young ladies. In 1835 Mrs. Foster removed her young ladies' school from Braddocks Field to Edgeworth. The original buildings were partly burned down. Mrs. Foster being a grandaughter of Mrs. Oliver, the property has been in the family for almost 70 years. This property is part of a large tract that was owned over 100 years ago by John Dilworth, who got title to it from the Penns and afterward sold it to David Shields. The purchaser intends adding to the house and beautifying the grounds to a considerable extent.

Largest Apartment House in City.

The Union Realty Company is out with a handsome pamphlet descriptive of the new Buckingham apartments at Craft avenue and Kennett square, Oakland, which were recently completed by the Monongahela Real Estate Corporation at a cost of over $600,000. The Buckingham includes eight separate buildings built around a hollow square. Seven of the buildings are arranged for family use and contain eight five-room suites each. The eighth building is designed for bachelors and has 50 rooms arranged single or en suite. A shot will be fought from the start to conduct the Buckingham cafe and restaurant on the American plan. A striking feature of the apartments is that each flat has a fire escape serving as a porch and opening into an enclosed brick tower with walls 27 inches thick. Once within this tower the tenants could easily make their way to the bottom down a broad winding stair without danger from the fiercest fire.

Scattering Realty Sales.

Penn avenue: W. H. Leahy sold for Phillip Pearman to Samuel Rosenburg an improved lot, 16x100 feet, in Penn avenue, Tenth ward, for $7,000.

Bellefonte avenue: William Brown sold to Adam Hahn an improved lot, 26x150 feet, in Bellefonte avenue, Thirty-second ward, for $1,275.

Arbor street: Nicholas Hartman sold to William Bowers a lot 17x108 feet at the southeast corner of Arbor street and Apple avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $1,275.

Hallet street: Jacob Bur sold to John G. Scully an improved lot, 54x100 feet, on the northeast side of Hallet street, near Junilla street, Thirteenth ward, for $3,200.

Fremont street: Frederick Bruckman sold to Adam Swoboda a two-story frame dwelling, 22x50 feet, on the north side of Fremont street, near Sandusky street, Twenty-third ward, for $2,450, and 35x60 feet on the east side of Fremont street, near Alsace street, same ward, for $650.

Penn avenue: H. H. Clark, Jr., sold to Ida J. Wakefield a one-seventh interest in an improved lot, 70x80 feet, in Penn avenue, Fifteenth ward, for $1,200.

CREAMERY BUTTER AND EGGS WERE ADVANCED

Turkey Demand Increases as Thanksgiving Day Draws Near.

Creamery butter was advanced 2 and 2½ cents a pound. Prints are quoted at 27½ and 28 cents a pound, tubs at 27 to 27½ cents, Ohio creamery, 24½ to 25 cents, dairy, 17 to 18 cents, and country roll at 17½ to 18 cents. The market is firm in eggs also as the prices quoted, which are a little higher. Select candled eggs are quoted as high as 32 cents, and fresh eggs at 29 to 30 cents a dozen. The market for cheese is only fair.

As Thanksgiving day approaches the demand for turkeys increases. The supply yesterday which arrived by boats was not large enough to bring down the prices. In fact, the market was firmer after the boat supply came in. Fancy turkeys are bringing 23 cents a pound dressed, and the demand is strong. The Keystone State is due to arrive today, and she is said to be bringing in more than the other boats. The outlook is that turkeys will bring more this year than in many previous years. The poultry market is good for other commodities as well as turkeys.

Winter grapes entered the market yesterday. Red Emperors were put on the market and quoted at $2 00@2 10. This was the only movement in the tropical or domestic fruits. Nuts are in fair demand.

The hay, grain and feed market was firm yesterday, with no changes in the quotations. The receipts were only fair for Wednesday.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Values in drygoods seem to be hardening in a good many instances and predictions are not infrequent that before long prices will show an advance. This outlook, however, is not causing any greater interest on te part of buyers who are still conducting their operations in a very conservative manner.

DULLNESS IN WHEAT PIT CAUSED EASIER PRICES

Wheat, Oats and Corn Closed the Day in Chicago at Loss—Provisions Lower.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Trading in wheat as to speculative time and the business was confined mainly to local professionals. Large world's shipments than had been expected, lower cables and continued favorable weather caused weakness in prices at the start. December selling off to 79¾@ after opening ½c lower to ½c higher at 79¾@c to 80c. Outside markets were also dull and weak early in the day and this fact was a basic influence on prices. The situation in the northwest was still a potent factor and with light receipts there the early loss was quickly regained. The market received some support from a prominent local operator, who bought freely of both the December and May deliveries, but toward the end of the session trading became decidedly dull and prices eased off again. Primary receipts were 1,864,200 bushels against 1,966,200 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,402 cars, against 1,277 cars last week, and 1,624 cars a year ago. The sentiment in the corn pit was bearish and there was some selling early in the day on large receipts, shipments and the unsatisfactory condition of the cash corn market. Business, although traders in general were not inclined to sell much owing to the small receipts and the chance of short country offerings. Estimates of larger receipts for tomorrow caused increased selling late in the day and prices weakened. Local receipts were 276 cars, with three of contract grade. The feature of trading was the heavy selling of May by commission houses which caused a weak market. Shorts were the best buyers and the support from this source prevented a break in prices. There was little trading in the December delivery, but the weakness in May had a depressing influence. An improvement in the cash demand was noted and the export bid factor. Local receipts were 229 cars.

Provisions were weak on extremely large receipts of hogs with a decline of from 10 to 15c in prices at the yards. Selling was chiefly by packers but the demand was feeble. January pork closed 30@25½c lower, at $11 22½@11 25. January lard was off 5@7½c at $6 45 and ribs were down 12½@15c at $5 92½@5 95.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 140 cars; corn, 425 cars; oats, 250 cars; hogs, 20,000 head.

SEVERAL SMALL OIL WELLS ARE REPORTED IN LOWER COUNTY

Reports from the lower southwest are that a large number of wells have been completed and drilled in since last Saturday. None are in the gusher class. In the Folsom district, Wetzel county, W. Va., the South Penn Oil Company, No. 2 on the Lucy Bennet farm in the Gordon, produced 75 barrels the first 24 hours. In the same district the South Penn has drilled its test on the Lucy Bennet farm into the stray sand, but not deep enough for the pay.

In the Pine Grove field, the same company's No. 8 on the Jesse Shuman farm, in the stray sand 15 feet, has a very light flow of oil. Near Wilsonburg, Harrison county, the Reserve Gas Company has completed tests on the T. P. and B. S. Raynolds farms. The first is a good gasser in the fifth sand and the last developed a good gas pressure in the Gordon.

In the Little Germany district, Marshall county, the Eclipse Oil Company's No. 3 on the Gertrude Hawkey farm has a show for a 100-barrel producer in the Gordon. On the same farm the Eclipse Company has completed its No. 4 and will have a 50-barrel producer in the Gordon after it has taken a shot.

In Lincoln district, Marion county, the Fayette Gas Company has completed its test on the Ramsey Martin farm and has a show for a 5-barrel pumper in the Gordon. The

PARTY CLASH IN THE QUAKER CITY

Mayor Weaver and Commissioner Durham at Odds Over Receiver of Taxes.

HEAVY BATTLE IS EXPECTED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Press Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 23.

Insurance Commissioner Israel W. Durham, leader of the Republican organization of this city, and Mayor John Weaver came to the parting ways this afternoon. This issue was made upon the re-election of Capt. John W. Davidson, receiver of taxes. Mayor Weaver insisted that Capt. Davidson be given another term.

Commissioner Durham, backed by Republican city committee and the ward leaders, insisted upon the nomination of State Senator William Berkelbach. Unless, and such a result is highly improbable, Durham and Weaver are able to harmonize their differences, a political battle royal is inevitable.

For six months or more there has been constant friction between the Republican leaders and Mayor Weaver, Commissioner Durham and his lieutenants have made many concessions in order to prevent a rupture of relations between the organization and the chief executive. But it had to come. During Mr. Durham's absence in Europe, the mayor's attitude was anything but friendly toward Mr. Durham's representatives here. It was then believed that Mr. Durham, immediately upon his return, would accept the challenge of battle and refuse to make any further concessions in the interest of peace. This, however, he did not do, and as the steamer Cedric steamed up New York bay Mr. Durham gave expression to a very cordial and enthusiastic indorsement of the mayor's course during his absence.

Mayor as Dictator.

At the time the organization accepted this indorsement, believing it to have been actuated by motives of high political diplomacy. It was urged that Mayor Weaver's would be forced to meet Mr. Durham and the Republican organization at least half way in the effort to maintain the political status quo. But the mayor did not see it that way. Privately he insisted upon an official censorship of all administrative measures. Publicly he maintained a silence most irritating to the Republican leaders.

The organization some weeks ago indicated its desire to support Senator Berkelbach for the office of receiver of taxes. Thereupon the mayor with the utmost frankness declared that Mr. Berkelbach did not measure up to his ideal of a candidate. The organization did not recede from its position. It realized that it was being constantly weakened in the eyes of its supporters by a too-willing acquiescence in the views of the mayor; that if it were to maintain its aggressive and potential force, it must assert itself and do so quickly.

Commissioner Durham returned Saturday from an outing at Hot Springs, Va. By arrangement he met the mayor in the latter's office at 11 o'clock this morning. It was quite 2 o'clock before Mr. Durham left the executive department. To the newspaper men who were in waiting Mr. Durham made this statement:

Parting of the Ways.

"I am for Senator Berkelbach. He will be nominated for the office of receiver of taxes, and he will be elected. Since I returned home I have discussed this matter with every ward leader. Without exception they demand the nomination of Berkelbach."

Mayor Weaver was then seen. After some fencing he made this statement:

"I am opposed to Mr. Berkelbach for the nomination for the office of tax receiver."

"Do you then favor giving Capt. Davidson another term as receiver of taxes?"

"I do. He has been a capable official and I believe he should be renominated. I certainly do not favor the nomination of Mr. Berkelbach."

"How far are you ready to go in supporting Davidson for the nomination?" was asked the mayor.

"I do not care to discuss the matter any further at this time."

"Does this mean that you and Mr. Durham have parted company politically?"

"So far as I know, I would not care to put the matter that way."

It is stated that an effort will be made tomorrow to have the mayor recede from his position and join with Mr. Durham and the organization in the nomination of Mr. Berkelbach. In the opinion of the writer such a move will not be successful. If the only difference between the mayor and Mr. Durham—and Mr. Durham is the organization—were the question of this nomination, it is possible that peace might come.

Is Very Antagonistic.

But there are other and more serious differences. Mayor Weaver objects to the $8,000,000 loan which the organization, through its control of councils, proposes to make. His attitude may also be briefly summarized in the statement that he personally opposes practically every proposition which the Republican leaders have submitted since they elected him to office.

It should be remembered that Mayor Weaver owes his official rise entirely to the efforts of Mr. Durham and the organization. As the organization candidate he was elected to the office of district attorney after one of the most strenuous political battles in the city's history. His conduct of the office of city attorney was so satisfactory that the organization made him its candidate for mayor to succeed Samuel H. Ashbridge. He was elected chief executive by a tremendous plurality.

Since then things have been at odds between the mayor and the organization. It is evident that the mayor feels his power. It is also evident that he intends to play a hand in politics outside of his official orbit. This the organization will not permit without a contest. The mayor apparently is ready. He realizes that his only weapon is that of patronage. It would be a potential one if it were not for the fact that in order to use it, the mayor must reverse himself upon the stand he has taken for a strict maintenance of the principle of civil service reform. Principles, like politics, are quite frequently reversed.

Mr. Durham and the organization absolutely control city councils. They can pass any legislation they desire. If the mayor shall veto the same they have sufficient votes to pass the bills over his veto. By his appointment of the directors, Mayor Weaver is supposed to control the offices of the department of public works, the department of public safety, the department of health and the department of charities and correction. The question that arises is whether the directors of these departments will stand by the mayor or by the organization.

Durham's Friends Staunch.

Director Costello of public works was supported for appointment by Durham. If forced to make a choice, it is believed he will resign his position and go along with his old friends. Director David J. Smyth of the department of public safety, as well as the assistant director, Alexander Colville, are also organization men. Their resignations are also expected. What the other two directors may do is at this time conjecture.

District Attorney John C. Bell at a recent banquet said that if the time came when he must make a choice as to whether he would go along with the organization or resign, he would certainly resign. James P. McNichol, who is regarded as Mr. Durham's right-hand man in politics, is interested in millions of dollars' worth of contracts which might be embarrassed by hostility upon the part of the mayor. McNichol's friends say, however, that he will stick to Durham, "sink or swim."

The situation is one of equal importance to the fight years ago, when Durham attempted and succeeded in wresting political control of the city from State Senator David Martin. Public interest is now at the same high tension as it was then. There is no doubt but what Mr. Durham will be able to nominate Mr. Berkelbach. What will follow then depends upon the mayor.

If he should insist that Capt. Davidson become an independent candidate for the office of tax receiver it is possible that the Democrats would indorse Davidson, and there would be a fusion fight, the importance of which would altogether depend upon how far the mayor went in exercising the powers as chief executive. It seems quite certain that the organization must win in such a battle.

Whatever happens, it is quite certain that the Quaker City during the next year or more will supply its share of interest to the political developments to come.

Conference With Quay.

Senator M. S. Quay arrived from Washington at 7:30. At the Hotel Walton he was joined by Commissioner Durham and James P. McNichol. The three were still in conference at 10 o'clock. Col. Quay, when asked by the writer if he cared to express an opinion upon the Philadelphia receiver of taxes nomination—the rock upon which Mayor Weaver and the Republican organization split—said he could not be quoted.

After declining to express an opinion on the most momentous development that has stirred local politics in a decade, Quay returned to his conference with Durham and McNichol.

In the morning Col. Quay goes to Phoenixville, where he will witness the reinterment of the remains of his grandmother. It appears that it was her deathbed request that she be buried beside her husband at Phoenixville, but the exigencies of the hour at the time of her death made it necessary for the burial to take place in Ohio.

Senator Quay, in accordance with her final request, has had the body disinterred and will rest Phoenixville in the morning and be placed in the family plot.

PRETENDER'S DAUGHTER ELOPES WITH COACHMAN

Princess Alice of Schoenburg-Waldenburg Adds Another Chapter to Career.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Society has been shocked by the reputed elopement of Princess Alice of Schoenburg-Waldenburg with her coachman, which is said to have occurred a couple of weeks ago, but which has just come to the public. She is the youngest daughter of Don Carlos and has had a sad and romantic career.

Princess Alice was married in 1898 to Prince Frederick of Schoenburg-Waldenburg, who became a Catholic for this purpose. His father, a strict Lutheran, was so indignant at his conversion that he stopped his son's allowance, and inasmuch as Don Carlos on his side declined to fulfil any of his promises of a financial character toward his daughter or to do anything for her in a monetary way, the young couple soon found themselves in pecuniary difficulties, which culminated in the prince parting from his wife and returning to live with his parents.

A year after her marriage she instituted legal proceedings against her father, Don Carlos, to force him to surrender to her the share of her dead mother's large fortune, to which she became entitled at her marriage.

His other daughter, the Infanta Elvira, who eloped with the Roman painter Folchi, and is now living in Algeria with the artist, likewise sued her father for her share of her mother's fortune.

DEFENDANT HAS FIT AT TRIAL FOR BIGANY

Margaret Jane Familton Interrupts Proceedings by Attack of Hysteria.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—While counsel for Margaret Jane Familton, accused of marrying twice in 24 hours, was summing up his case today, the young woman, who had a short time previously taken the stand in her own behalf, was overcome in a fit of hysterics and fell screaming and struggling to the floor of the court room.

Court attendants and the girl's sisters rushed to her side, but she fought them off with unusual strength and it required the added efforts of several spectators to subdue the girl. The court room was thrown in an uproar at the struggle. It was some time before the young woman could be carried from the room. Finally she was taken across the street to St. John's hospital, where she gave the doctors considerable trouble before they brought her around. She is still suffering, however, with extreme nervousness.

Because of the disturbance Judge Moore postponed the continuance of the case until tomorrow when it is hoped that the girl will be able to again appear.

MADE QUITE A SHIFT.

Nebraska Supreme Court Commissioners Change Decision on Insurance Law.

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 23.—The commissioners of the Nebraska supreme court took unexpected action today on the revenue bill passed at the last session of the legislature, and the law, which was attacked by insurance companies as unconstitutional, is upheld. An opinion completed last Saturday, but not released, declared the law invalid.

Two of the commissioners changed their minds today, and a new ruling is the result. Foreign insurance companies attacked the law on the ground that the state had no right to make exceptions in the assessment of insurance companies favorable to home companies. If the supreme court does not uphold this ruling of its commissioners, and declare the law unconstitutional, the state will have a deficiency of $700,000.

"He was shot in our uniform," one of the soldiers said, "but no one was missed on the roll of the troop."

COULDN'T FOOL HIM

Doctor Was Firm and Was Right.

Many doctors forbid their patients to drink coffee but their patients still drink it on the sly and thus spoil all the doctor's efforts and keep themselves sick. Sometimes the doctor makes sure that the patient is not drinking coffee and there was a case of that kind in St. Paul where a business man said:

"After a very severe illness last winter which almost caused my death the doctor said Postum Food Coffee was the only thing that I could drink and he just made me quit coffee and drink Postum. My illness was caused by indigestion from the use of tea and coffee.

"The state of my stomach was so bad that it became terribly inflamed and finally resulted in a rupture. I had not drank Postum very long before my lost blood was restored and my stomach was well and strong and I have now been using Postum for almost a year. When I got up from bed after my illness I weighed 98 pounds and now my weight is 125.

"There is no doubt that Postum was the reason for this wonderful improvement and I shall never go back to tea or coffee but shall always stick to the food drink that brought me back to health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

SCHOONER DIDN'T SAIL.

Non-Union Crew Taken Off After Hard Fight With the Skipper.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Capt. Joseph Smith of a schooner lying in dock at Elizabethport, N. J., came up to this city this morning looking for a new crew to replace the six able seamen who were kidnaped from his vessel late yesterday afternoon.

According to the skipper, 12 men from the Atlantic Coastwise Seamen's union boarded the Tuck just as she was about to get under way for Boston with a cargo of coal, and, after a desperate fight, pitched all his seamen overboard into a launch, which then departed, leaving the vessel helpless.

Capt. Smith bore evidence of the fight which he made to save his crew; one eye was blackened, his face swollen, and he limped painfully as a result of vicious kicks from the kidnapers' heavy boots. He was trying today to ship another crew, but up to a late hour had met with little success.

Wardwell Under Surgeon's Knife.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—William Wardwell, formerly treasurer of the Standard Oil Company, underwent a serious operation early today for the removal of a tumor. The operation was performed by Dr. A. M. Desser, Prof. Young of Baltimore and Dr. Blasucci of this city. The patient stood the operation well.
